Last of the old-school Marxists

ANIL S @ T'Puram

END of 1990s. The E K Nayanar-led Left government was in power in Kerala. It was around the time Pinarayi Vijayan was set for his first tenure as CPM state secretary. A section of leaders were eyeing a new political combine — to get the Indian Union Muslim League (IUML) into the LDF fold, with an eye on cementing a long-term rule for the Left front in the state. Informal talks were held at varying levels between senior leaders. Several possibilities were discussed. But one question kept bothering them — who would tell VS, the LDF convener and the most powerful leader who called the shots in the front?

IUML leader Kutty Ahammed Kutty, who shared a warm rapport with VS, was handed the task. Kutty conveyed the idea to VS, who heard him through. And, without batting an eyelid, VS said something that is now part of the state's political lore: "Kutty, it is not yet time for the Congress to die in Kerala!" A deeply insightful statement especially relevant in the current political scenario. Ignoring short-term political gains, the far-sighted leader batted for a line that till date underscores how both the Left and the Congress remain relevant in their fight against the saffron front in Kerala's political landscape. To VS, it was simple logic: UDF minus the IUML would naturally weaken the Congress and Hindutva forces would rush in to take its space. He didn't want that to happen.

Velikkakath Sankaran Achuthanandan, who passed away on Monday, remains an unparallelled Communist, the biggest crowd puller in recent times, last of the old-school Marxists, and one of the greatest mass leaders Kerala has ever seen. The 101-year-old, who was incapacitated following a stroke in 2019, was undergoing treatment at a private hospital following a cardiac arrest on June 23.

A founding leader of the Communist Party of India (Marxist), VS began his political career as a trade unionist and was later seen at the forefront of land struggles. The Communist movement in Kerala, since its inception in 1939, evolved with VS. He was the last among the 32 leaders who walked out of the historic CPI national council meet in 1964 to form the CPI (M).

In many ways, the influence wielded by VS in the CPM has its intrinsic roots in the quirkiness of modern-day factionalism in the party. His 1996 defeat in the Marxist bastion of Mararikulam, was a turning point. The simmering resentment brought out the vengeful politician in VS, leading to the historic 1998 Vettinirathal—a total elimination of the CITU lobby in the party. Then began the murkiest and most spiteful episode—VS vs Pinarayi—that lasted for two decades.

VS transformed himself into a popular leader by taking up people's issues and advocating for environmental protection and women safety. His deliberate makeover through careful interventions in social issues shaped up the mass leader he became. P7

16-hour discussion in LS on Op Sindoor next week

Cong agrees to proposal since PM will be abroad from June 23-26

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

EVEN as the first day of the Monsoon session of Parliament witnessed ruckus and adjournments, the government agreed to hold a 16-hour discussion on the recent Pahalgam terror attack and Operation Sindoor in the Lok Sabha next week.

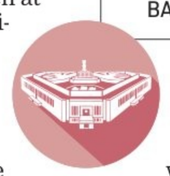
The decision was taken at the meeting of the Business Advisory Committee. Though the Opposition initially objected to the timing of the debate, the Congress said that it will abide by the proposal of the government.

While the government's floor managers pointed out that Prime Minister Narendra Modi will be abroad from June 23-26, the Opposition insisted that the discussion should start immediately followed by the PM's reply.

Later in the evening, at a meeting of floor leaders, the Congress decided that it will wait until Modi's return for the discussions on the Pahalgam attack and Operation Sindoor to take place. "We will ask the government to hold the discussions as soon as the PM returns from the trip," said a leader who attended the meeting. The leader told this paper that the party will hold a meeting with the floor leaders of INDIA bloc leaders on Tuesday and will take a final call.

3-day debate, not under specific rule

The special discussion on Pahalgam and Operation Sindoor and Pahalgam terror attack will be spread over three days and will not be under any specific rule, said a source who attended the BAC meeting



At the BAC meeting, Opposition members protested that the government's agenda for the week did not mention their demand on Operation Sindoor. Some Opposition members also called for a debate on the Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls in Bihar and the situation in Manipur.

Earlier, both Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha proceedings were adjourned for the day amid noisy protests by the Opposition, which demanded a discussion on Operation Sindoor and other issues.

The Lok Sabha saw four adjournments. Defence minister Rajnath Singh assured the opposition MPs that the government is ready to have a long discussion on all issues the Speaker agrees to.

Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju appealed to the Opposition to place their demand during the BAC meeting. "The government is ready to reply to all the issues that the Speaker agrees to at the BAC meeting. But to raise slogans and not let the House function on the first day of the Monsoon session is unacceptable," Rijiju said in the House.

The Rajya Sabha, too, saw continuous disruptions despite Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar's request to the Opposition to allow the House to function. "The government is ready for a discussion. I will meet the leaders and settle for a discussion. And I will ensure full-fledged discussion for as much time as you want," said Dhankhar.

Dhankhar springs surprise, quits as V-P

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

IN an unexpected development that sparked intense speculation, Vice President Jagdeep Dhankhar put in his papers on Monday evening, citing medical advice.

His resignation stirred the already turbulent political waters, particularly because there was no hint of it right through the day. He continued to perform his parliamentary duties as Chairman of the Rajya Sabha and had fixed a meeting of the Business Advisory Committee on Tuesday at 1 pm.

Dhankhar, 74, had assumed office in August 2022 and his tenure was till August 2027.

Citing the necessity to adhere to medical advice, Dhankhar submitted his resignation to President Droupadi Murmu. The timing of the resignation — on the first day of the Monsoon Session of Parliament — was odd. The opposition found it inexplicable, saying there was far more to his unexpected resignation than meets the eye.

THIRD VICE PRESIDENT TO PUT IN HIS PAPERS

Dhankhar became the third Vice President of India after VV Giri and R Venkataraman to resign before completing their tenure. Both Giri and Venkataraman had resigned so as to contest the presidential election

It also led to speculation on his possible successor. As per Article 68 of the Constitution, an election to fill the V-P vacancy occurring due to his death, resignation or removal, or otherwise will be held as soon as possible. Till the time of filing this report, the President had not accepted the resignation.

In his letter, Dhankhar wrote: "To prioritise health care and abide by medical advice, I hereby resign as the Vice-President of India, effective immediately, in accordance with Article 67(a) of the Constitution."

Expressing his gratitude to the President, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the council of ministers, he wrote, "Prime Minister's cooperation and support have been invaluable, and I have learned much during my time in office... As I leave this esteemed office, I am filled with pride in Bharat's global rise and phenomenal achievement and hold unwavering confidence in her brilliant future."

Dhankhar's resignation came days before the departure of Modi on a two-nation visit. Sources revealed that he had hinted at his decision to resign during the latter half of Monday, reportedly taking the PM by surprise. P9

MUDA CASE

Apex court dismisses ED's appeal against Siddu's wife

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @New Delhi

NOTING that the Enforcement Directorate (ED) was being used as a tool in political battles, the Supreme Court on Monday strongly questioned the probe agency's conduct in politically sensitive cases, as it upheld the Karnataka High Court's decision to quash the case against Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife, Parvathi BM, in the Mysore Urban Development Authority (MUDA) case.

"Let political battles be fought before the electorate. Why are you being used? a two-judge bench of Chief Justice B R Gavai and Justice K Vinod Chandran asked the central agency.

The top court made these scathing observations after hearing an appeal filed by the ED challenging a Karnataka High Court order that quashed proceedings in the MUDA case against Parvathi.

While rejecting the appeal of the ED, the top court came down heavily on Additional Solicitor General (ASG) S V Raju, senior law officer of the agency, warning him: "Please don't compel us to open our mouths. Otherwise, we will be forced to make some harsh comments about the ED."

The case in question relates to allegations that Parvathi received plots in an upscale Mysuru locality under a 50:50 land return scheme from MUDA, in exchange for 3.16 acres acquired by the authority.

After a brief hearing on Monday, the top court rejected the appeal of ED, and observed: "We do not find any error in the reasoning adopted in the approach of the learned single judge. In the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, we dismiss it."

The ED had moved the SC in March 2025, challenging the Karnataka High Court's order of quashing the summons issued by it against Parvathi and others.

VERDICT SLAP ON CENTRE'S FACE: CM

Terming the Supreme Court's order "historic", Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Monday said it's a "slap on the face" of the Union Government's "vendetta politics". the CM said that unable to defeat him politically, the saffron party and its allies have stooped to misusing Constitutional agencies like CBI and ED to fabricate baseless cases against his wife and harass his family. MORE: P4

Bombay HC acquits all accused in 7/11 train blasts

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Bombay High Court on Monday acquitted all 12 accused in the 2006 train blast case as it set aside the special MCOCA court's order handing death sentence to five and life term to seven accused, saying it was "hard to believe" they committed the crime. On July 11, 2006, seven bombs ripped through Mumbai's local trains killing 189 and maiming 820 travellers.

A bench of Justices Anil Kilor and Shyam Chandak cited several reasons for overturning the 2015 verdict of the special court. The bench noted that the evidence was not properly collected and presented. The first arrest was made on July 20, 2006 followed by continuous arrests. However, the test identification parade was not done for four months. Besides, some witnesses were also the witnesses in the 2002 Ghatkopar bomb blast case and their testimonies were shattered in cross examinations.

The appellants shall be released from jail if they are not required to be detained in any other case by giving a bond of ₹25,000 each. The MCOCA court had sentenced Kamal Ansari (now dead), Mohammad Faisal Shaikh, Ehtesham Siddiqui, Naveed Hussain Khan, and Asif Khan to death.

Maharashtra's Anti-Terrorist Squad, which investigated the case, said it would challenge the Bombay high court's order in the Supreme Court.

Summons to advocates: ED crossing all limits, says CJI, mulls guidelines

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Enforcement Directorate is "crossing all limits", observed Supreme Court Chief Justice B R Gavai on Monday, while hearing a case on the probe agency summoning advocates who offered legal opinion or represented parties under investigation.

"Communication between lawyers and clients is privileged. How can notices be issued against them... they (the ED) are crossing all limits," he said, and suggested the need for drawing up guidelines. "Any communication between a lawyer and the clients, even if it is wrong, is privileged communication. How can notices be issued against them?" the CJI asked.

The bench, also comprising Justice K Vinod Chandran, had on July 8 taken suo motu cognisance of the ED summoning senior lawyers Arvind Datar and Pratap Venugopal for offering legal opinions or representing clients who were under investigation. After massive outrage, the ED withdrew its summons.

Both Attorney General R Venkataramani and Solicitor General Tushar Mehta agreed that lawyers cannot be summoned for rendering legal opinions. But Mehta said there were attempts to malign institutions based on some interviews and YouTube channels by creating false narratives.

The bench said its actions are not influenced by 'media narratives'. "Have you seen any of judgment authored by us in which the decision is not based on the facts of the case? Name one judgment," the CJI said.

NISAR TO LAUNCH ON JULY 30: ISRO

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AFTER the Axiom-4 mission, the next space mission that all space scientists and enthusiasts were waiting for- NISAR (NASA-ISRO Synthetic Aperture Radar), will launch on July 30.

The Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) on Monday announced that the satellite developed in coordination with NASA, is scheduled for launch at 5.40pm from Sriharikota. The ISRO's GSLV-F16 will launch the NISAR satellite into the 743kms sun- synchronous orbit at an inclination of 98.4 degrees.

This is India's first satellite that will observe the Earth with a dual frequency Synthetic Aperture Radar. Weighing 2,392 kg, the unique satellite will use NASA's 12m unfurlable mesh reflector antenna. The NISAR will observe the Earth with a swath of 242 km and high spatial resolution, using SweepSAR technology for the first time, ISRO in its release said.

The satellite is unique and different as it will scan the Earth and provide all weather, day and night data at 12-day interval and will also enable a wide range of applications.

With its two radar instruments — an S-band system provided by ISRO and an L-band system provided by NASA — NISAR will use a technique known as synthetic aperture radar (SAR) to scan nearly all the planet's land and ice surfaces twice every 12 days. Each system's signal is sensitive to different sizes of features on Earth's surface, and each specializes in measuring different attributes, such as moisture content, surface roughness, and motion. 12% WORK DONE, 75% TIME OVER: SUBURBAN RAIL STUCK IN A LIMBO

Project crawls amid land acquisition, coordination problems

INDRA S @Bengaluru

SNAIL'S PACE

Corridor	Progress	Time over
1	0%	100%
2	36%	75%
3	0%	75%
4	12%	75%

ONLY 12% of on-ground civil work for the Bengaluru Suburban Rail Project (BSRP) has been completed, even though 75% of the total timeline — 57 out of 72 months — has already elapsed, as per the sanction letter issued in October 2020.

The BSRP is an under construction 148-km commuter rail network in Bengaluru that will include 64 stations and four corridors. The project was initially scheduled for completion by 2026, but numerous factors have contributed to delays which has extended the deadlines to 2027 and beyond.

The project's execution is the responsibility of the Rail Infrastructure Development Company (Karnataka) Ltd (K-RIDE). Highlighting the main cause for the delay, a source from K-RIDE, told TNIE, "The biggest hurdle we're facing right now is land acquisition. KIADB is the acquiring authority and is making all efforts, but we still don't have 100% of the land, especially for Corridors 2 and 4."

The source added that procurement of rolling stock failed under the PPP model, hence they are now going for equity procurement with the cost being borne by the state government and the Ministry of Railways.

However, the source also highlighted progress in one section and provided a timeline for operationalising it. "A realistic timeline, provided that all land is handed over soon, would be August 2027 for opening the Yeshwantpur to Chikkabanavara section in Corridor 2, as 50% of work is done. All other corridors will follow. But that depends on when we receive the remaining land."

According to estimates made by Rajkumar Dugar, founder and convenor of Citizens for Citizens (C4C), based on the K-RIDE newsletter available online and his independent assessment, Corridor 1 (Majestic–Devanahalli) and Corridor 3 (Kengeri–Whitefield) have made no progress, while Corridor 2 (Byappanahalli–Chikkabanavara) stands at 36%, and Corridor 4 (Heelalige–Rajanakunte) saw 12% progress. The overall progress of the project stands at just 12%.

Commenting on the slow-paced development of the BSRP, mobility expert Sanjeev Dyamannavar, who agrees with Dugar's estimates, said, "BSRP is one of the most important projects, but neither the state nor the central government is serious about executing it. By now, 8 to 10 km should have been operational, but that hasn't happened."

"Railways is creating hurdles, and there's poor coordination between the state and the railways. The central government should have resolved this long ago," he added. Commenting on the status of work, he said, "Corridors 2 and 4 are said to be under construction, but only 10% to 30% progress is visible. With urgency, it could reach 40% in 6 to 12 months, but that push is missing." He added that neither elected representatives nor the administration are showing any interest. "There's no coordination, urgency, or accountability."

Dugar stressed the importance of the corridor 1. "The airport corridor of the Suburban Railway must be taken up on a war footing as it's the most efficient public transport link to a fast-growing airport, supports northward city expansion, requires minimal land and will ease major traffic bottlenecks."

11mm rain throws traffic haywire

Bengaluru: Bengaluru Urban recorded 11 mm rainfall with Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike areas seeing 4.2 mm rain till 5.30 pm on Monday. As per the India Meteorological Department (IMD), Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) recorded 19.8 mm rainfall. According to the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre (KSNMDC), Jakkur recorded 17 mm rainfall, Vidyaranyapura 15 mm, East Banaswadi 11.50 mm, HAL Old Airport 11 mm and Horamavu 11 mm. Owing to the heavy rainfall in the evening hours, traffic was severely affected due to waterlogging in several areas, resulting in slow-moving vehicles. Commuters across the city, including students heading home, faced long traffic snarls. Many underpasses witnessed slow-moving traffic due to water accumulation. The Bengaluru Traffic Police (BTP) issued multiple advisories for areas that experienced severe traffic disruptions. Key areas affected included: Silk Board Junction, Gunjur Road, Varthur, Marathahalli Bridge, Bellandur, ITPL Main Road, Adugodi Junction, Rupena Agrahara, Bommanahalli, Panathur Junction, KEB Junction in Hennur, Kothanur Main Road and Sagar Metro Station towards Dairy Circle. MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the split in Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and announcement of five corporations, BJP leaders have lashed out at the Congress government, saying that Padmanabhanagar, RR Nagar, Dasarahalli and Mahadevapura have been deliberately added into different zones.

City BJP President S Harish said the move behind the unscientific split is to delay elections. Supporting Harish's claim, Umesh Shetty, former Nagarbhavi corporator, said the attempt is to create confusion among voters. "Mahadevapura's Bellandur is added into East and South corporations, and will add a lot of confusion," he said.

BBMP SPLIT

"The basic rule for delimitation of municipalities is that assembly constituencies should not be disturbed, but the Congress government has done it. Padmanabha Nagar, the assembly seat of Opposition leader R Ashoka, is divided. One part is with the Bengaluru South corporation, and the other with West. Most BJP-ruled assembly segments are targeted, and this exercise is to delay municipal elections," said Harish.

RR Nagar MLA Munirathna Naidu, whose constituency is divided between three corporations, blamed Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar and his brother DK Suresh, without naming them. He said, "They got me entangled in police cases, they are avenging Lok Sabha poll result as Dr CN Manjunath defeated Suresh. Because of the unscientific delimitation, my assembly voters will suffer. The constituency is divided between Bengaluru South, North and West corporations. This delimitation will create confusion among voters and delay municipal polls."

BJP leaders contended that the party will approach court over splitting of the corporation and dividing BJP-ruled assembly segments.

"The party will surely take the matter to court, and I am personally contemplating approaching court too, as 50 per cent of my constituency is in Bengaluru North corporation, and the remaining in West," said Dasarahalli BJP MLA Muniraju.

THE Karnataka High Court issued notice to the state government, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and the State Election Commission on a public interest litigation filed by film director T S Nagabharana and two others questioning the legality of the Greater Bengaluru Governance Act (GBA), 2024. Stating that the Act is arbitrary and ultra vires the scope and ambit of the Constitution, the petitioners also sought directions to conduct the election to the BBMP.

A division bench of Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice C M Joshi issued notice after hearing the petition which sought a stay on the operation of the GBA, notified on May 14, 2025, and also direction to the SEC to conduct the BBMP elections within three months.

The petitioners urged the court to declare Sections 8, 9, 10, 11, 14, 15, 18, 21, 22, 23 and 316 as unconstitutional and consequently declare the GBA as unconstitutional, arbitrary and ultra vires the scope and ambit of the Constitution.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

22ND July : Tuesday is special to the planet Mars, the symbol of unrestrained energy. The best way to take advantage of today's special qualities is to try just a little bit harder in every area of activity. There are no rules or regulations so just take life as it comes.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Yesterday's lunar alignments have left you feeling emotionally winded. However, as luck would have it, this year's version of celestial events offers you all the opportunity you need to get back in the driving seat and, by tomorrow, come out on top.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
There is no reason why everything should be black and white, and you must expect another day when all is not quite clear. The most ideal way to get the very best out of your planetary aspects is to enjoy your dreams and follow your instincts. Wear your sense of humour on your sleeve.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Although you're renowned as a communicative sort of a person, team-work is not always your major strength. Somehow you now have to find a way of fitting in while at the same time asserting your very individual and totally unique version of what is needed.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Forget your sensitive, retiring Cancerian qualities. Today it is time to bring out a different feature of your celestial personality, being more ambitious, tough and ruthless. Also, as a matter of urgency, expect the unexpected! You can never be too prepared.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Venus is happy sailing through your chart, but will soon bring changes to your romantic hopes. Take all opportunities to enjoy yourself, but, bearing in mind the general irresponsibility inherent in today's mighty planetary aspects, you will have to decide where to draw the line.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Powerful financial indications continue for a little while longer, but in view of the fact that the stars indicate carelessness and loss, you must question all ambiguous claims and suspicious details. Somebody may have misled you, probably without meaning to.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
I am afraid that you will have no choice but to listen to what other people are saying. If you do try to close your eyes or avert your gaze then you will actually provoke them into even louder announcements and proclamations! That doesn't mean that their words will suddenly make sense, though!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Keep up the hard work! Even if you are taking time off, you should keep active and flexible. If you adopt a narrow and dogmatic course, the ground may be swept from under your feet. Also, if you make a rash promise then a partner might take you at your word.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
If you are in tune with the heavens, then you have managed to extend a period of hope and opportunity. It's almost as if you are enjoying a sort of personal emotional revival. Do not feel bad about enjoying yourself if other people are working, and don't let them put you down or make you feel small.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The only way to function today is to throw out every prejudice and pre-conception. This is something at which you excel, in spite of your rather undeserved stuffy astrological reputation. If you start again with a blank slate then you might realise that you misjudged a partner, and that they underestimated you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There is much to be done that still seems to concern your long-term future. If you have lost sight of a number of goals, use your current planetary energies wisely to talk to the experts, chat to friends and seek advice from every corner, especially from people who have been here before.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You could be in a gambling mood. Take emotional risks by all means, and adopt unusual plans if they suit your mood. However, do bear in mind that financial prospects are dodgy, so don't throw good money after bad. Also, listen to loved ones: they could be smarter than you think.

2 more held in rowdy-sheeter murder case

ENS @Bengaluru

TWO more accused have been arrested by the Bharathi Nagar police in connection with the murder of rowdy-sheeter turned realtor Shivaprakash alias Biklu Shiva. The police have also detained a close relative of former minister and KR Pura MLA Byrathi Basavaraj for questioning.

The accused is Arun (32), a resident of RS Palya, and Naveen (32), a resident of Banasawadi. With their arrest, the total number of people held in the case has risen to seven. Five others, who had earlier surrendered to the police, are currently in custody.

A senior police officer said that RD Anil, a close relative of Basavaraj, has also been detained for allegedly providing vehicles to the accused for carrying out the murder. Anil has been named as accused number three in the FIR. A manhunt is underway to nab the prime accused, Jagadish alias Jagga. Police have raided his house and office. Deputy Commissioner of Police (East) D Devaraj said Arun and Naveen were arrested on Sunday and produced before the court, which remanded both of them to 14 days of custody.

On July 15, Shivaprakash was hacked to death by a gang near his house, Halasuru, over a property-related dispute. His mother has filed a complaint accusing MLA Basavaraj of allegedly instigating the murder. The FIR names the MLA as accused number five.

31-YR-OLD DIES WHILE CLEANING MANHOLE

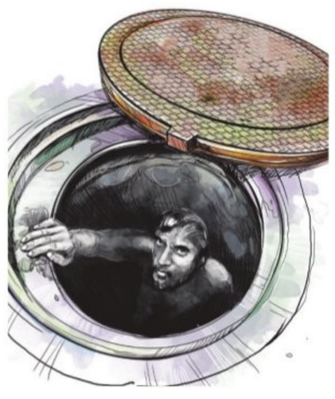
EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A 31-year-old labourer, who developed breathing issues while cleaning a manhole at Akshaya Nagar in RMC Yard police limits on Sunday, died at home on Monday morning.

The deceased is Puttaswamy of RMC Yard.

Four people have been arrested on charges of engaging Puttaswamy for manual scavenging despite a ban on it.

According to police, one of the accused, Nagaraju, hired Puttaswamy and Antony, a daily wager, to clean the clogged manhole. The duo entered the manhole around 7 pm without any safety gear. They developed breathing issues after inhaling toxic gases inside the manhole. Though Puttaswamy and Antony came out of the manhole, they were not given any medical help.



On Monday morning, he was found dead. His body has been sent for postmortem, the police said. Based on a complaint by Puttaswamy's father, a case has been registered against Nagaraju, Antony, Ananthkumar and Devaraju for persuading Puttaswamy to enter the manhole. Antony has been booked for taking Puttaswamy to clean the manhole.

The four have been booked under The Prohibition of Employment as Manual Scavengers and their Rehabilitation Act and Section 106 (causing death by negligence) of BNS.

According to Ministry of Social Justice & Empowerment report 2024, the statewise number of identified manual scavengers in Karnataka are 2,927. In February 2023, two manual scavengers died while cleaning an STP near Kanakapura, on the city outskirts. Bengaluru has the highest manual scavenging deaths in the state.

WHAT DOES LAW SAY?

As per Prohibition of Employment as Manual Scavengers and their Rehabilitation Act, no person or agency can engage or employ any person for manual scavenging and any person or agency who engages in manual scavenging is punishable with imprisonment up to 2 years or a fine up to Rs one lakh or both.

HC fines state ₹2L for snubbing para champ

THE Karnataka High Court said the state should have honoured, not hindered, the spirit of Vishwas K S, who achieved success in international para-swimming without arms. The court also imposed a Rs 2 lakh fine on State Government to be paid by Sports and Youth Empowerment Department officials from their pocket, for denying the champion's rights.

"When a man without arms dives into pools and emerges not just victorious, but triumphant on the international stage, the state is expected to salute that spirit, not stifle his rights by red-tapism," said the High Court.

Despite submitting representations in 2017 and 2023, no amount was given to him. He approached in the High Court in 2023, and Rs 4.74 lakh was paid after the notice was issued.

Stating that Rs 2 lakh cost is to be payable towards litigation expenses to Vishwas, who approached the court for not releasing Rs 1.26 lakh out of Rs 6 lakh awarded for winning medals, the court directed the state government to release payment of Rs 1.26 lakh to him. If the amount is not paid within two weeks, the petitioner is entitled to the costs of Rs 1,000 for every day's delay, till it reaches him.

"I deem it appropriate to observe that the focus must not be on bureaucratic technicalities, but on the living human spirit that triumphed against colossal odds. The Government's duty is not merely administrative; it has to be moral, constitutional and humane", said Justice M Nagaprasanna, who passed the order.

"It is nothing but a sad reflection on the functioning of the state's machinery. Such callous indifference, particularly towards a person with disability, calls for not just a correction, but censure. A state that prides itself on promoting sports and inclusivity cannot behave as a litigant, driven by obstinacy and pettiness. It is unfortunate that the state pampers only a few sports and leaves the other sportsmen in the lurch", the court observed.

CBI arrests ₹12.6cr fraud accused after 16 years

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on July 19 arrested a proclaimed offender, Nasreen Taj, from Bengaluru after a 16-year-long chase in a high-value bank fraud case of around Rs 12.63 crore in Mandya, the officials said on Monday. During this operation, human and technology intelligence (humint and techint) have been used.

Taj had severed contact with her family and social network, and was living under the pseudonym- Salma and used to change residence.

The CBI had registered the case on April 15, 2009, against accused, including, the then branch manager of Syndicate Bank, Mandya, husband of Taj-Asadullah Khan- and eight others for criminal conspiracy, cheating, forgery and using forged documents, to defraud the Syndicate Bank to the tune of Rs 12.63 crore.

In collusion with her husband, Khan, and others, she fraudulently availed a Temporary Overdraft (TOD) facility of up to Rs 120 lakh, along with farm loans amounting to Rs 55 lakh from Syndicate Bank. "The proceeds from these farm loans were illicitly diverted towards the repayment of the TOD, instead of utilising it for agricultural development, as mandated under the terms of sanction," the agency said.

CBI had filed the charge sheet on October 12, 2010. "She failed to join the trial to summons/warrants and was untraceable since 2019. Multiple non-bailable warrants were issued against her since April 30, 2019. Finally, the Special Court, Bengaluru, on November 27, 2021, ordered Proclamation and Attachment of property warrant against her," CBI added. She had misled the local residents as well as the employer about her real identity and had maintained minimal interaction with locals.

The CBI used advanced technological tools and identity-tracking databases and meticulously analysed her digital footprint. "Supplemented by extensive field investigations, the team successfully located Taj in Bengaluru. Pursuant to her identification, she was produced before the Competent Court in Bengaluru, which remanded her to judicial custody," the agency stated.This is the second case in a row in which CBI used tech platforms to apprehend a long-absconding offender.

22-year-old student ends life after alleged ragging

EXPRESS NEW SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A 22-year-old architecture student ended his life allegedly due to ragging. The student had recorded a video before taking the extreme step. The incident took place on July 11 in Nandaramayyana Palya, which comes under the Madanayakanahalli police station limits in Nelamangala on the outskirts of the city.

The police said that they have registered an Unnatural Death Report (UDR), and the victim's parents are expected to file a formal complaint on Tuesday. "We will file an FIR once they file a complaint," a police officer said. The deceased Arun (22), who was a final-year architecture student at a private engineering college, was a native of Hassan. Arun's parents work as daily-wage labourers. Despite their poor financial background, Arun was a bright student and had secured a free seat in the institution. He was also a portrait artist.

According to police, Arun died by suicide after his parents had left for work. He recorded a video expressing distress over being ragged by friends. In the video, he mentioned that people were speaking ill of him behind his back. He shared the video in his college group. After the video went viral, college authorities alerted Arun's parents, who rushed home and found him hanging, the police said.

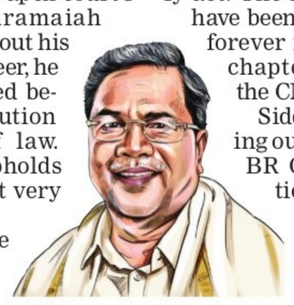
SC VERDICT A SLAP ON CENTRE'S VENDETTA POLITICS, SAYS SIDDU

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Monday said that the Supreme Court's "historic" order rejecting the Directorate of Enforcement's (ED) appeal to investigate his wife Parvathi BM in connection with the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) site allotment case is a "slap on the face" of the Union Government's "vendetta politics".

"This verdict has not only exposed the malice behind the case but has also unequivocally cleared our names of all the baseless allegations," CM Siddaramaiah wrote on social media platform X.

Welcoming the apex court's decision, Siddaramaiah said that throughout his long political career, he has always bowed before the Constitution and the rule of law. "This verdict upholds and protects that very belief," he said.



Slamming the BJP and the Centre, the CM said that unable to defeat him politically, the saffron party and its allies have stooped to misusing Constitutional agencies like CBI and ED to fabricate baseless cases against his wife and harass his family. "This is not just an abuse of power but also a disgraceful and cowardly act. The mental agony we have been subjected to will forever remain a painful chapter in our lives," the CM added.

Siddaramaiah, pointing out to Chief Justice BR Gavai's observation, said it reflected the voice of his own conscience and of every Constitution-believing Indian. "Electoral battles must be fought through the people, not through the misuse of institutions like the ED," the CM said, adding that this is the voice of justice rising against tyranny.

The CM also said that this verdict restores faith in the judiciary, especially among all those who have fallen victim to "BJP's political witch-hunt using IT, CBI, and ED over the past 10-11 years".

Further, Siddaramaiah said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah must wake up and stop weaponising Constitutional agencies for political gain. "It is time they restore the autonomy of these institutions and cleanse themselves of the sins of political misuse," the CM said.

He said BJP and JDS leaders in Karnataka, who have relentlessly hurled fabricated allegations against him and his family in connection with the MUDA case, "if they have even an ounce of dignity or shame left, they must come forward and publicly apologise for their baseless accusations".

Will continue to fight: BJP

The BJP on Monday said that the party will continue to fight the alleged scam in site allotment by the MUDA. The Supreme Court on Monday dismissed the ED's appeal to probe Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife Parvathi BM in connection with MUDA case. Senior BJP MLA and Leader of the Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka said that Siddaramaiah, admitting his mistake, returned the sites allotted to his wife owing to the protests by BJP. "If he has not done any mistake, why were the sites returned?" the BJP leader said, adding that the party will not stop its fight in the MUDA case. Meanwhile, Leader of the Opposition in Council Chalavadi Narayanaswamy said, "Many documents are missing, and even during the ED probe, they had said that many documents were missing. There is corruption in this case, and everyone is aware of it. Proper proof needs to be given. But in this case, the CM himself is involved. The State Government failed to provide proof as it wanted to safeguard the CM." Last year, BJP raised the alleged MUDA site scam in the monsoon session of the legislature, and later they even took out a padayatra from Bengaluru to Mysuru demanding that Siddaramaiah resign.

SIT should investigate in a time-bound manner, says Bommai

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FORMER CM and Haveri MP Basavaraj Bommai said on Monday that the Special Investigation Team (SIT) should probe the alleged crimes in Dharmasthala in a time-bound manner without targeting anyone.

Addressing reporters here, he said the SIT should investigate who had pressured the complainant. Locals and police personnel, who worked in Dharmasthala for many years, are aware of the significance of the temple there. The probe should be impartial, he added.

Leader of Opposition in the legislative Assembly R Ashoka welcomed the decision to form SIT. He said spreading false information about the temple is wrong. The probe should not aim to falsely implicate anyone, he said. He said if so many bodies were found, the victims' families would have filed complaints. The government should clarify how many such cases have come to light.

Ashoka said creating a controversy to damage the reputation of a religious place is unacceptable. The alleged crimes have no connection with the Dharmasthala temple administration, he said.

Responding to a question on the developments within the Congress, Bommai said that a major political change is imminent in Karnataka.

The former CM slammed the state's Commercial Taxes Department for issuing notices to small traders. Issuing notices to small traders has affected their businesses severely, Bommai said.

WOMEN'S FORUM HAILS SIT PROBE

BENGALURU: Naveddu Nilladiddare, 'If We Do Not Rise – Karnataka', a coalition of women's and human rights groups, on Monday welcomed the SIT probe into the Dharmasthala case. They urged an impartial probe into decades of alleged crimes, protection for witnesses, and accountability for failures by authorities. The group stressed that no one, however powerful, should be above the law. The group said the failure to investigate has amounted to "negligence" that must now be corrected. Stating that women are not just "beneficiaries or vote banks," the forum urged the government to take strong steps against gender violence.

Rahul may sacrifice PM post for Kharge, says Rayareddy

HUBBALLI: CM Siddaramaiah's economic adviser Basavaraj Rayareddy said that LoP in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi may forego the PM's post in favour of AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge, citing the Gandhi family's legacy of renouncing power. On BJP leaders' sarcastic remarks calling for Kharge to be named the Congress' PM candidate, Rayareddy told reporters on Monday that their jibes might turn true. "If PM Modi steps down under pressure from RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat, the NDA government may not survive," he said. Rayareddy suggested that BJP allies Telugu Desam Party and JDU could withdraw their support by October or November, leaving the NDA in a minority. "If that happens, the Congress would have a strong chance of forming the government, and Rahul Gandhi might propose Kharge's name for the top post," he said. ENS

Driver transporting beef, cow vigilante Kerehalli arrested

BENGALURU: Bagalagunte police arrested cow vigilante and right-wing activist Puneeth Kerehalli for allegedly assaulting a mini goods vehicle driver, who was allegedly transporting beef. Police also arrested the truck driver for illegal transport. The incident took place in Bagalagunte in the early hours of Sunday. According to police, on June 19 midnight, Puneeth Kerehalli and his associates intercepted a goods vehicle driven by Alla Baksh (30), who was allegedly transporting beef from Nelamangala to Shivajinagar. The interception took place on the Tumakuru-Bengaluru flyover near Bagalagunte. Kerehalli and his associate allegedly assaulted the driver before handing him over to the police. A case was registered under the Karnataka Prevention of Cow Slaughter and Cattle Preservation Act, and the driver was arrested. Cong leaders slam BJP, JDS for targeting CM, wife

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AFTER the Supreme Court upheld the Karnataka High Court decision quashing an ED notice against Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's wife Parvathi in the MUDA site allotment case, Congress leaders slammed the BJP and demanded the resignation of Leader of Opposition R Ashoka and BJP State President BY Vijayendra.

The CM's legal adviser and Congress MLA Ponnanna said the SC quashed the notice issued to Parvathi Siddaramaiah and minister Byrathi Suresh, as the case does not come under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act. "We have belief in the judicial system. The SC has said not to politicise this. It is applicable to the entire country. They should stop talking if they have any conscience left," he said. Ponnanna asked whether Byrathi Suresh was minister when MUDA sites were allotted to Parvathi. "BJP dragged Parvathi's personal issue into their politics, which is not correct," he said.

Suresh said that right from the beginning, he had been saying that he, the CM and his wife had no role in in MUDA case. The Supreme Court decision should be a lesson to BJP and JDS leaders for making false allegations. "Instead, why cannot they go to the people and listen to their woes. The court has warned, now BJP and JDS leaders should be more careful," he said, and demanded the resignation of Ashoka and Vijayendra.

AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala

AICC General Secretary Randeep Singh Surjewala said BJP manufactured false allegations against CM Siddaramaiah. RDPR and IT-BT Minister Priyank Kharge pointed out that the Supreme Court not only rejected the ED's plea in the MUDA case, but also slammed the central agency for being the puppet of the BJP and pursuing political vendetta. The ED-BJP nexus and conspiracy stands exposed and shattered. If Ashoka and Vijayendra have even an ounce of shame left, they should resign immediately, he demanded.

SC dismisses Karnataka govt's appeal against HC quashing Surya case

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@New Delhi

IN a major relief to BJP MP Tejasvi Surya, the Supreme Court on Monday refused to consider a plea filed by the Karnataka government challenging the high court order quashing the criminal case lodged against him in a case related to alleged spreading of fake news.

The case against Surya was that on November 7, 2024, he had shared an article from Kannada news portals claiming that a farmer, Rudrappa Channappa Balikai, had died by suicide after finding out that his land had been taken over by the Waqf Board.

Justice M Nagaprasanna of the Karnataka High Court quashed the FIR against Surya, and said in its order that allowing the criminal proceedings would amount to "abuse of the process of law when there is nothing to investigate".

Subsequently, an appeal was filed by the Karnataka government in the top court questioning the order of the HC.

The SC bench, while dismissing the appeal of the Karnataka government, cautioned it not to politicise legal matters before the court. "What is this? Don't politicise the matter. Fight your battles before the electorate. Dismissed with costs," said a two-judge bench of Chief Justice of India B R Gavai and K Vinod Chandran.

The South Bengaluru MP had deleted the post after it was revealed by the police that the claims were unfounded. The police had registered a suo motu case under Section 353(2) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023, (BNS) for spreading fake news.

The HC, while granting relief to Surya, had said, "The tweet is posted; tweet is clarified; and tweet is deleted. Therefore, it is not understandable as to how the ingredients of Section 353(2) of BNS are met in the case at hand."

TEJASVI HITS OUT AT CONGRESS GOVT

BENGALURU: Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Survya on Monday hit out at the Karnataka Government after the Supreme Court refused to consider a plea filed by the State Government challenging the High Court order quashing the case filed against him in a case related to alleged spreading of fake news. "The State Government filed an FIR against me - at the behest of a minister - accusing me of spreading fake news. The High Court quashed it with a detailed order," read a statement from the MP's office. Surya, said that, however, despite the HC quashing, their (Congress government's) "addiction to vendetta politics made them approach the apex court". "Today, not only did the SC dismiss their plea, it imposed costs and cautioned them against politicising institutions. For long, Congress has run a calculated misinformation campaign against me, even abusing police and judiciary to settle political scores. This judgment should serve as a lesson," he said. ENS

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah inaugurated various development projects in Pavagada, Tumakuru district, on Monday

Congress will retain power in 2028, Vijayendra's chair is shaky, says CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Pavagada (Tumakuru district)

DAYS after asserting that he will remain the state's chief minister for the rest of his term, Siddaramaiah on Monday said that the Congress will retain power in 2028 by defeating the BJP and JDS.

He was speaking after inaugurating the Rs 2,529 crore project implemented to provide drinking water to Pavagada, Challakere, Molakalmuru, Kudligi, Hosapete, and parts of Chitradurga from the backwaters of the Tungabhadra dam.

He went on to appeal to the voters of Pavagada to elect the incumbent Congress MLA Venkatesh once again in 2028.

He also took a dig at state BJP president BY Vijayendra. "Vijayendra expects snap polls, which will not be possible as people have given the Congress a five-year mandate. I doubt whether Vijayendra will remain in his post in 2028, as his seat is shaky," the CM said. He said that the BJP and JDS were spreading misinformation about the state's finances as they "are jealous about the success of the five guarantees." "When we called for a debate, Vijayendra told us to call for fresh elections. Our government will be in power for five years. We are not afraid of elections, as we will win even if they are conducted now. Vijayendra's chair is shaky, and he does not know whether he will be in his post till 2028 or not," the CM said.

Siddaramaiah said that JDS continues to remain weak and is clinging to life by forging an alliance with BJP.

The CM also announced the commissioning of the 2250-megawattsolar power generating plant in Pavagada.

He promised to complete the Yettinahole project in two years. "Let the BJP show us a project they had implemented in Karnataka during their nine-year rule between 2008 and 2023," he taunted.

Meanwhile, Chitradurga MP Govind Karjol advised Siddaramaiah to instruct the concerned officials to provide employment opportunities to the locals in the solar project.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah said that the project to provide clean drinking water to the people of Pavagada taluk from the Tungabhadra backwaters will protect the health of about 17.5 lakh people and give them freedom from the fluoride menace. The CM said that he was happy that he was inaugurating the drinking water project for which the foundation was laid by him in January 2018 and alleged that the previous BJP government ignored it. The project will provide potable drinking water to 270 villages of Pavagada taluk.

Siddu to lead the show at Backward Classes sammelan in Delhi

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru/Delhi

IN what could be a game-changing political gambit, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah is poised to take the national stage at a massive Backward Classes sammelan in Delhi's Talkatora Stadium on July 25. The gathering, orchestrated by the AICC, comes on the heels of last week's Bengaluru convention, where Karnataka's OBC, Dalit and minority communities had converged in a show of renewed Ahinda solidarity. The Congress hopes to scale up its Backward Classes formula -- crafted and championed by Siddaramaiah -- to the national stage as it sharpens its strategy for the 2029 Lok Sabha elections.

Observers say this could be Congress's Mandal 2.0 moment, with the party reworking its social justice pitch after years in the political wilderness. Insiders say that caste census data and community estimates are fuelling Congress confidence. "There's a huge block of Kurubas across the country," said one source. "When you add communities like fishers, Edigas, Yadavas, it could point to a social shakeup."

Despite their size, none of these communities has ever seen one of their own become prime minister, which the Congress is keen to highlight. The Mandal Commission had earlier pegged the OBC population at 51-52%, and when combined with Dalits, STs, Adivasis and minorities, the coalition could form 75% of the Indian electorate.

Leading the charge is Siddaramaiah, a two-time CM and Kuruba leader with grassroots connect, administrative acumen, and an advocate of the oppressed. His emergence as the symbol of a new social justice coalition has re-energised Congress circles.

On Friday, Talkatora Stadium is expected to see a crowd which will rally for nationwide adoption of the Bengaluru Declaration, demand a nationwide caste census modelled after Telangana's survey of collecting social, economic and political data, relaxation of 50% cap on reservation for backward classes, and implementation of reservation in private educational institutions. The Congress believes the road to 2029 runs through India's heartland castes, and Siddaramaiah could just be the man to lead the long march.

DKS will not meet public for 3 days

BENGALURU: DyCM DK Shivakumar will not be available for public visits or meet party workers or leaders for the next three days, from Tuesday. "Due to other engagements, I would not be able to meet the public, party workers, or the party leaders for the next three days. I regret any inconvenience caused due to this," read a statement from the DyCM's office. Sources said he is suffering from dengue fever and will be taking rest as advised by the doctors. Despite suffering from fever, he attended a Janaspandana programme at Kodihalli in Kanakapura, on Monday. Speaking there, he said a plan was being formulated to supply drinking water from the Cauvery to 250 villages in Kanakapura.

'VS AN ICON OF PEOPLE'S STRUGGLES'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @T'Puram

TERMING V S Achuthanandan's passing as the end of an era, Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan described VS as a towering figure in state's political history and a symbol of uncompromising struggle.

In a condolence message, the chief minister said Achuthanandan's life was deeply intertwined with the growth of Kerala's communist movement and the state's progressive transformation. From a humble background, he rose to become one of Kerala's most influential leaders, holding key positions including trade unionist, legislator, leader of Opposition, and chief minister.

"Comrade VS was a symbol of a glorious legacy of protest struggles, extraordinary determination, and an uncompromising commitment to principles. His century-spanning life, spent standing firmly with the people and taking up their causes, is inseparably woven into the modern history of Kerala. History will record him as a key figure in the state's political tions in Kuttanad, fighting for better wages, abolition of the 'chappa' system, job security, and land redistribution, altered the region's social history," Pinarayi said.

He recalled that VS was the last surviving member among the 32 who walked out of the National Council of the Communist Party during the historic 1964 split, marking the end of a significant chapter in Indian Left politics. As chief minister from 2006 to 2011, VS steered Kerala through turbulent phases, implementing the policies and programmes envisioned by the party. As the leader of Opposition, he raised people's issues forcefully in the assembly and left his mark as a legislator across multiple constituencies over decades, Pinarayi pointed out.

Vendors voice concerns as GST registration rules tightens

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Department of Commercial Taxes held an open conference on Monday to promote transparency and spread awareness about Goods and Services Tax (GST) registration, which many vendors across Bengaluru will now be required to undergo. The rules, which have prompted some vendors to switch to a cash-only system, apply regardless of the mode of transaction and are based solely on the annual aggregate turnover of the business.

Officials clarified that opting out of UPI transactions will not shield businesses from GST compliance, as data from previous years' UPI payments has already been collated by the department, providing insight into actual turnovers.

According to Meera Suresh Pandit, Joint Commissioner of Commercial Taxes at the Divisional GST Office in Mangaluru, businesses with an annual aggregate turnover exceeding Rs 40 lakh for the supply of goods or Rs 20 lakh for services are mandatorily required to register under GST. Businesses with turnovers below Rs 1.5 crore (goods) or Rs 50 lakh

(services) in the previous financial year may opt for the Composition Scheme, which offers lower tax rates and simplified compliance.

"The 18% rate is not fixed," Pandit assured. "It may be reduced after document verification."

However, several vendors expressed apprehensions about the new compliance burden.

"We can do the registration," said Raghu, owner of SLN Enterprises in Malleswaram. "But now we'll need to maintain proper books of account. That means hiring an accountant and bearing extra expenses ourselves. The government says it's collecting taxes from consumers, but this kind of cost won't be reimbursed."

Raghu also alleged unofficial hurdles in the process. "They claim registration is free, but there will be complications. Without bribes, applications won't be processed. Most officers demand an extra Rs 2,000 to Rs 5,000 before approving registration."

He added that leasing complications further hamper the process. "If the business premises are on lease, they demand landowners' documents. But most owners are reluctant to share these."

TRADERS TO PROTEST I-T TAX NOTICES

Bengaluru: Small traders and vendors across Karnataka have demanded that the state government immediately withdraw GST back tax notices issued without prior intimation. Traders allege they were suddenly asked to pay Rs 20-50 lakh in back taxes dating from 2021, without warning. If not withdrawn, they warned of a massive protest at Freedom Park on July 25. Ravi Shetty Byndoor, president of the Karnataka State Workers' Council, said, "Withdraw the notices by Tuesday evening, if not you'll have to deal with protests. You gave no warning since 2021, and now you expect lakhs together to be paid overnight."

Odisha NSUI president held in rape case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bhubaneswar

IN a major embarrassment for Congress which is spearheading the fight against growing crime against women, state president of the National Students' Union of India (NSUI) Udit Pradhan was arrested late on Sunday night on charges of raping a 19-year-old girl in Bhubaneswar.

The incident allegedly took place at a hotel in Mancheswar area of the city on March 18 this year. The victim reportedly came forward to file her complaint with Mancheswar police on Sunday following which Pradhan was arrested.

The victim said she and her female friend had come to meet a common male friend on the evening of March 18. They were in his car when Pradhan joined them at the Station Square. He was known to their male friend. Pradhan then allegedly took the trio to a hotel in Mancheswar and started consuming alcohol. He allegedly spiked her cold drinks after which she became unconscious for around 30 minutes. After gaining consciousness, she realised that she had been sexually assaulted.

NISAR mission to monitor natural disasters and earth's surface changes

THESE capabilities will help scientists better understand processes involved in natural hazards and catastrophic events, such as earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, land subsidence, and landslides.

Additionally, NISAR's cloud penetrating ability will aid urgent responses to communities during weather disasters such as hurricanes, storm surge, and flooding. The detailed maps the mission creates also will provide information on both gradual and sudden changes occurring on Earth's land and ice surfaces.

Multiple ISRO centers have contributed to NISAR. The Space Applications Centre is providing the mission's S-band SAR. The UR Rao Satellite Centre provided the spacecraft bus. The rocket is from Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre, launch services are through Satish Dhawan Space Centre, and satellite mission operations are by the ISRO Telemetry Tracking and Command Network. The National Remote Sensing Centre is responsible for S-band data reception, operational products generation, and dissemination.

Managed by Caltech for NASA, JPL leads the US component of the NISAR project and provided the L-band SAR. NASA JPL also provided the radar reflector antenna, the deployable boom, a high-rate communication subsystem for science data, GPS receivers, a solid-state recorder, and payload data subsystem. NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Maryland, manages the Near Space Network, which will receive NISAR's L-band data.

"The NISAR can detect even small changes in the Earth's surface such as ground deformation, ice sheet movement and vegetation dynamics. The applications will also include sea ice classification, ship detection, shoreline monitoring, storm characterization, changes in soil moisture, mapping and monitoring of surface water resources and disaster response," ISRO scientists said.

NISAR will also be an excellent tool to understand and predict natural disasters. Apart from taking pictures and assessing the tiny scale movement of the land and changes up to 1cm, the soil moisture content information will be helpful in warning for early disasters, explained Paul Rosen, project scientist, NISAR, NASA JPL.

Explaining the ocean coverage, Rosen said they have added ocean coverage and livelihood dependence over the years. However, they do not have the deep ocean data. But the teams are studying the deep ocean and the weather systems. Over the years this information will be added to the NISAR database for over-the-years study.

Explaining the cost involved, Nicky Fox, associate administrator, Science Mission Directorate, NASA, said, ISRO and NASA's contribution to the mission is on equal basis. NASA has invested 1.2 billion USD (Rs 1,03,49,34,20,400). However, the cost borne by ISRO is subject to differ, because of multiple factors.

INFO OF THE SATELLITE & MISSION

Will scan nearly all the planet's land and ice surfaces twice every 12 days.

The deceased have been identified as T Karthigai Selvam (25), S Sangeetha (40) and K Lakshmi (45), all residents of Muthuramalingapuram Colony at Pallapatti near Thiruthangal. Three workers , M Nagalakshmi (55), T Mariammal (50), and M Mariammal (55), who sustained injuries are undergoing treatment at Sivakasi GH.

Officials said that explosion occurred at a time when fewer workers than usual were present at the unit. Five sheds were completely destroyed in the explosion, officials added.

While Karthigai Selvam's body was found at the site, Sangeetha's body was found trapped under the debris. Lakshmi, who was initially untraceable, was later found dead buried under the rubble, and the body was retrieved with the help of earthmovers. Police and fire and rescue services personnel sent the bodies to Sivakasi GH for autopsy, sources said.

Upon information, four fire and rescue service teams and four fire-tenders from Sivakasi, Sattur and Vembakottai rushed to the spot and the blaze was completely doused around 6 pm.

Revenue department officials confirmed that the PESO-licensed unit has been in operation for over a decade. "The cause of the explosion is still under investigation, and the structures destroyed in the fire are currently being examined," an official stated.

'Avoid using sirens during VIP movements'

Bengaluru: Director General and Inspector General of Police MA Saleem has issued a circular to police officers across the state to avoid using sirens during VIP movements. The circular cited public safety, noise pollution, and security concerns as key reasons for the move. Instead of relying on sirens, police officers have been asked to use wireless and other communication systems to manage VIP movements safely and quietly. According to the circular, use of sirens would not only cause noise pollution and inconvenience to the people, but also alert miscreants and anti-social elements. They would also confuse other drivers on the road. "Sirens should only be used by emergency service vehicles such as ambulances, police vehicles and fire engines — and only in unavoidable situations," Saleem stated.

FIR against Karnataka BJP MLA's son in rape case

RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI @Kalaburagi/Bidar

FOLLOWING the registration of an FIR against Pratik, son of Karnataka's Aurad BJP MLA Prabhu Chawan, different teams of Bidar police have started a search operation to arrest him.

Bidar SP Pradeep Gunti told TNIE on Monday that following the complaint by a 25-year-old woman at Women's police station of Bidar on July 20, alleging that Pratik allegedly raped her several times in several places, the police registered an FIR and formed teams and they were searching for Pratik.

Meanwhile, Aurad MLA Prabhu Chawan told TNIE that anticipatory bail application will be filed in court for Pratik and a counter complaint has also been lodged against the girl and her relatives at Hokrana police station of Aurad taluk. Prabhu Chawan alleged that former Union minister Bhagavant Khuba of the BJP has instigated the complainant and her relatives to lodge a complaint against his son, just to tarnish his image. The woman from Udgir taluk (Latur district) of Maharashtra said in the complaint to the police that there was a marriage engagement between her and Pratik Chawan in 2023.

It's our choice to align with anyone: EPS on DMK & allies' criticism

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Tiruvarur/Thanjavur

"IT is our choice to align with anyone," AIADMK general secretary Edappadi K Palaniswami said on Monday as a retort to the criticism of the DMK and its alliance partners for his party aligning with the BJP.

Addressing a public meeting at Mannargudi (Tiruvarur district) on Monday as part of his campaign tour, Palaniswami pointed out that Chief Minister M K Stalin, his ministers and DMK alliance parties are saying that "EPS has aligned with the BJP".

"Why are you bothered," asked Palaniswami. The DMK has been suffering from election "fever" after the AIADMK forged an alliance with the BJP, Palaniswami added.

Criticising VCK leader Thol Thirumavalavan for his alleged analogy of the campaign with preparing for examinations one year before, Palaniswami said what is wrong in meeting people and lendng an ear to their problems. He alleged that the DMK government has been incapable of challenging the CIBIL score requirement (by RBI) for advancing loans to farmers by banks.

He also said that during the DMK regime, the desilting was not properly done, as a result of which the delta farmers have been complaining the Cauvery water not reaching the tail-end areas. Palaniswami, while finishing his speech at Mannargudi, said that he prayed for complete recovery of CM Stalin, who is admitted to hospital due to ill health. Palaniswami alleged that the DMK government did not give rebate to the handloom fabrics to clear the stocks in the cooperative societies. He assured that the demands of the weavers will be fulfilled when AIADMK comes to power.

He also visited the house of a weaver in Tirubhuvanam and heard the family's grievances. Later he addressed a public meeting at Kumbakonam.

Saying AIADMK is in clutches of BJP, senior leader Anwhar Raajhaa joins DMK

CHENNAI: AIADMK's organisation secretary and former MP A Anwhar Raajhaa, the party's well-known face from the Muslim community, joined DMK in the presence of Chief Minister MK Stalin at party headquarters Anna Arivalayam in Chennai on Monday. Speaking to reporters after joining DMK, the long-time AIADMK member and former minister accused the opposition party of being caught in the clutches of BJP. The strongman from Ramanathapuram, who has been critical of AIADMK general secretary Edappadi K Palaniswami since the party revived poll ties with BJP, said he was left with no option but to join DMK to protect Tamil Nadu from the threats posed by the BJP-led centre in issues like Hindi imposition. "BJP's goal is not to win this assembly election but to replace AIADMK. BJP would destroy AIADMK as it has done to many of its allies," he said. Meanwhile, AIADMK released a statement expelling Raajhaa from the party. It can be recalled that he was expelled from the party in November 2021 for repeatedly airing views contrary to the party, but later returned in August 2023.

HEED CABINET SECY'S CALL FOR EAR TO THE GROUND AT LOWER LEVELS TOO

INDIAN bureaucracy needs to have a finger firmly on the nation's pulse—that seems to be the sum and substance of a recent letter by the Cabinet Secretary addressing senior central government officers. The country's top bureaucrat, T V Somanathan, has encouraged secretaries in all ministries and departments to meet non-government officials and other representatives to gain "insights into the actual state of affairs in the field".

Somanathan has asked senior officers to be accessible to non-officials who seek meetings in connection with the work of their departments, even to those "under a law enforcement action or investigation" or with a contractual dispute with the department. This, he wrote, would help the government clarify any miscommunication regarding policies, facilitate more direct exchange of ideas, and provide an opportunity to correct errors. The letter also addresses bureaucrats' disinclination to meet contractors, NGO representatives, trade union leaders, and political party workers. Importantly, it outlines the appropriate protocols for such meetings—they should be held in official settings, not at social venues such as clubs or hotels, and that another officer could be in attendance if such precaution is warranted.

The letter comes at a time when the grouses with governance are growing. Honest answers and lasting solutions are hard to come by when infrastructures crumble, citizens are denied official help on technicalities, or cities feel helpless in the face of extreme climate events. People are feeling a strain on their purses even when the official inflation figures are dipping. Businesses are still complaining of red tape and project delays. All these point to the gap between policymakers and public expectations widening. The Cabinet Secretary's letter is a call to bridge that gap between the officers responsible for implementing projects and the ground realities.

The country's top bureaucrat advocating for greater accessibility to non-officials is a progressive move. The humane touch he has urged should foster greater accountability and transparency in governance. While some bureaucrats do engage with non-government stakeholders, the frequency and diversity of such interactions need to increase. This openness should be extended to meeting journalists as well. Most importantly, the guidance should not remain confined to the upper echelons of the central bureaucracy—it must percolate down to the state and local levels, too.

FIND SOLUTION TO AVOID HOBBLING PACE FRONTLINE

IT seems India are in the sick bay. The hopes brought by the Test win at Edgbaston have faded. The fight the tailenders—Jasprit Bumrah and Mohammed Siraj, in the company of Ravindra Jadeja—put up at Lord's has passed, too. Now the frontline fast bowlers, considered weapons of destruction in English conditions, are nursing injuries. This is something India were desperately hoping to avoid ahead of the crucial fourth Test in Manchester that starts on Wednesday. A freak injury to Arshdeep Singh during practice, a back strain for wrecker-in-chief at the second Test, Akash Deep, and a knee ligament issue for all-rounder Nitish Reddy are threatening to stretch the pace attack. Add Bumrah's much-talked-about workload management with a fragile back, and the tourists are looking at a major headache.

Cricketers suffering injuries is nothing new, especially fast bowlers. But over the past year-and-a-half, several pacers have spent time injured and in rehabilitation more than playing. Deep, who is doubtful for the Manchester Test, also missed the Sydney Test in January due to a back injury. An ageing Mohammed Shami is nowhere near full fitness; the other pace sensation Mayank Yadav has been in rehab for most of the last 18 months. This has left the team with little choice but to call Anshul Kamboj. As things are, it should not come as a surprise if he makes his Test debut on Wednesday ahead of the likes of Prasidh Krishna. One cannot help but wonder why so many pacers are getting injured. The cricket calendar is ever expanding and the top players are expected to play in all formats for the country.

Even if India win at Manchester, they need to ponder whether to play Bumrah in the fifth and final Test. This brings the attention to the BCCI Centre of Excellence, where contracted players report after injury. Last year, the BCCI introduced an Athlete Monitoring System, which the centre uses to monitor the skills and fitness of every player who attends camps. These reports are available to the state associations to monitor the athletes' readiness against the workload. Yet, the injuries keep coming. Perhaps it's time for the BCCI to reassess their mechanism for monitoring—the earlier it's done, the better.

QUICK TAKE

FIGHT AGAINST SUPERBUGS

POLICYMAKERS' attention should be riveted on a 122-country study by the Center for Global Development projecting that superbugs could cost the global economy almost $2 trillion a year by 2050. This comes at a time concerted action has been weakened against increasing rates of antimicrobial resistance (AMR). The Indian Council of Medical Research has designated AMR a 'major public health concern' and set up a surveillance and research network for it in 2013. This network has not been effective in at least one of its mandated tasks: disseminating information. As patients increasingly complain of infections contracted at hospitals and ineffective drugs, there needs to be more transparent and energetic action on the AMR front.

The Ukraine-Russia war faces a brutal military and diplomatic deadlock where neither side can define victory. Trump's decision to resume military supplies to Ukraine will prolong the stalemate

A WAR TURNED INTO A COSTLY TEST OF STAMINA

LT GEN SYED ATA HASNAIN (RETD)

Former Commander, Srinagar-based 15 Corps; Chancellor, Central University of Kashmir

SOURAV ROY

OPERATION Sindoor and the Iran-Israel-US standoff took the world's eyes off the scanner on Eastern Europe. The focus has now returned to Ukraine, especially with the spate of Russian drone and missile attacks and the US decision to resume supply of military hardware to Ukraine.

Three years since Russia launched its invasion of Ukraine, the battlefield remains frozen in more ways than one. Despite billions of dollars in Western aid, thousands of lives lost, and relentless offensives, the war shows few signs of a decisive conclusion. Instead, it has evolved into a grinding war of attrition—with military breakthroughs elusive and the political will for total victory giving way to discussions on containment, ceasefire and face-saving 'off ramps'—in effect, the Americanisation of the war.

Ukraine failed to make major territorial gains through its much-anticipated counteroffensive in 2023, highlighting not just how well-entrenched the Russian forces are, but also the limits of modern Western weaponry. For Russia, despite its superior numbers and recent gains in places like Avdiivka, the advance has been incremental and costly.

Neither side currently possesses the capability to inflict a decisive blow. Ukraine lacks the strategic depth and offensive firepower to roll back Russian positions across the entire front. Meanwhile, Russia has neither the political cover nor the operational capacity to overwhelm Ukraine without incurring massive costs—both militarily and diplomatically. In short, even if militarily possible, Russia cannot justify a total war or occupation of Ukraine in a politically sustainable way.

The war has thus settled into a brutal equilibrium. Localised gains are made, but strategic momentum is absent. This military deadlock mirrors the diplomatic one. A key variable in prolonging this balance has been the sustained Western military aid to Ukraine—particularly from the US. The recent U-turn by Donald Trump and the Republican-controlled House by agreeing to support fresh aid to Ukraine marked a significant shift. For months, they had stalled arms packages and questioned the logic of endless support for Kyiv. Yet, facing mounting pressure from both Nato allies and the US defence industry, aid has been given the green light—albeit with strings attached.

This aid, while vital for Ukraine's survival, may paradoxically contribute to prolonging the conflict. It is enough to prevent Ukraine's collapse but insufficient to guarantee victory. It sustains the battlefield stalemate without fundamentally altering its dynamics. The logic of 'fighting until victory' becomes more uncertain when neither side can define what victory looks like.

In recent months, whispers of a potential ceasefire or negotiated settlement have grown louder, particularly in Western policy circles. A ceasefire might appear pragmatic—halt the bloodshed, prevent escalation, and freeze the lines for eventual diplomacy. However, such a pause could also prove strategically disruptive. Russia could cement control over the occupied territory, fortify it and integrate it administratively. This would normalise a new status quo, potentially undermining Ukrainian sovereignty permanently. Ukraine fears this the most. Besides demoralising Ukraine, it might also strain Western unity if Kyiv is pressured to accept it.

For Ukraine, any freeze along the current lines would legitimise Russian gains in Donbas and Crimea. For Russia, a ceasefire would offer time to regroup, consolidate and diplomatically outmanoeuvre the West—possibly through platforms like BRICS or the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation, where Russia continues to find sympathetic ears.

The problem lies in mutual distrust. Neither Moscow nor Kyiv believes the other would respect a truce unless guaranteed by force. Could a peacekeeping force be inducted? Unlikely, considering the experience of the Balkans many years ago.

Another complicating factor is the broader instability in West Asia, particularly the simmering Iran-Israel conflict. Iranian attacks on Israel in April 2024 and Israel's retaliatory strikes demonstrated how regional conflicts can consume Western attention and resources. Ukraine faces the risk of aid diversion and strategic fatigue. Of course, the power of asymmetric warfare without too many territorial gains or losses is likely to continue playing out.

The Ukraine war is also reshaping global geopolitical alignments. The G7 remains largely united, but fatigue is evident—especially in countries like Germany, which is facing rising energy costs and domestic dissent. On the other hand, BRICS and SCO have become platforms for Russia to bypass Western isolation.

India, for its part, continues to maintain its strategic autonomy quite admirably, condemning civilian suffering but avoiding any direct condemnation of Moscow. With its strong defence ties with Russia and a growing strategic partnership with the US, India exemplifies multipolar diplomacy grounded in strategic autonomy.

Unfortunately, the ability of multilateral forums to resolve conflicts remains highly questionable. The most probable outcome in Ukraine is not victory, but endurance. Russia may continue its slow advances, Ukraine may hold its urban strongholds, and Western aid may keep the frontline stable—but at a cost.

A frozen conflict, reminiscent of the Line of Control between India and Pakistan, could emerge as a de facto solution—undesirable, but sustainable. Such an arrangement would require security guarantees for Ukraine, demilitarised zones, and mechanisms for monitoring compliance, perhaps under a UN or Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe mandate. However, the political will for such a framework is currently lacking.

Escalation cannot be ruled out, too. Russia could test Nato's resolve with hybrid threats in the Baltics or cyberattacks. Ukraine, in desperation, might hit targets deep inside Russia. There is potential for vertical escalation—into space, cyber, or even the nuclear domain. It's the technology-testing times in the new world.

As a military professional, I recognise that wars are not always won by firepower alone. Political clarity, logistical sustainability and timing are equally crucial. In Ukraine, all three are now in flux. We are witnessing the slow transformation of a conventional war into a geopolitical contest of stamina. The challenge for Ukraine's allies is to ensure that 'support' does not become a euphemism for 'indefinite survival'. For Russia, the question is whether tactical gains can ever yield strategic peace without concessions. A resolution without compromise is unlikely.

Ultimately, the war in Ukraine has become a mirror to the limitations of war in the 21st century. The world must now decide: are we managing a war, or just delaying its transformation into a wider one?

OUR MISSING LINKS TO PROGRESS

MAMIDALA JAGADESH KUMAR

Former Chairman, UGC and former Vice Chancellor, JNU

ONCE again, English finds itself at the heart of a national conversation. Several important questions are being raised. Some ask: Why shouldn't India use English as a national link language? The counterview is: Why should English continue to dominate our lives in every sphere? Why do some people equate aspiration with English as a link language in a country so rich in its languages?

India's civilisational history demonstrates our linguistic diversity never hindered cultural and social unity. In ancient times, languages used in different parts of our country flourished alongside pan-Indian languages like Sanskrit, Prakrit, and Pali. These languages enabled spreading of knowledge, spirituality and governance across the nation without displacing local languages. Trade routes, universities like Nalanda and Takshashila, and Bhakti and Jain movements thrived in a multilingual environment. India never needed a foreign language to stay intellectually or culturally united.

English became dominant in India, not by natural choice. It was imposed. The British deliberately positioned English as a marker of prestige and power. The arguments that English should be a link language remind us that we have yet to decolonise fully. Mahatma Gandhi's opposition to English was grounded in linguistic self-respect, national unity, and decolonisation principles. He wrote in Young India in 1921: To give millions a knowledge of English is to enslave them... The foundation that Macaulay laid of education has enslaved us. There is no doubt that sole reliance on English as a national link language has the detrimental potential to reinforce social hierarchies and widen the divide between the privileged and the rest."

The framers of the Constitution envisioned English as a transitional necessity—not a permanent feature. The Eighth Schedule recognises 22 Indian languages as vital to India's identity and governance. The decision to uphold linguistic plurality was a defining feature of our constitutional settlement. The framers of our Constitution resisted the temptation to impose a singular language identity. To demand English as the central link is to dilute that foundational commitment to linguistic justice.

English serves as a tool of exclusion rather than integration, which was the original objective of the colonial ruler. It continues to be a linguistic filter determining access to quality education, jobs, and governance. Should we continue to perpetuate inequality and undermine the democratic ethos of equal opportunity by vehemently promoting English as a link language?

India's intellectual and cultural legacy—from Ayurveda and mathematics to philosophy and literature—was built in Indian languages. Those who support English as a link language are directly or indirectly promoting the idea that Indian languages are inferior. When the vast majority of Indians believe English cannot be our national link language, they do not reject English. It is an assertion of India's linguistic strength.

AFP

> Some of the world's richest countries do not rely on English as their national link language, even though they are multilingual. Until we create an ecosystem where India confidently uses its languages for commerce and technology as much as for communication, true progress will elude us

Many of the world's most advanced nations do not rely on English as their national link language, even though they are multilingual. They have succeeded in science, technology, and governance while preserving linguistic sovereignty. These nations invest in their languages to sustain global engagement and cultural continuity. India, too, can be multilingual and modern without depending on English as a national crutch.

India is advancing in technologies like artificial intelligence, natural language processing, and speech-to-text tools to make Indian languages digitally capable. Platforms such as Bhashini and Anuvadini build robust multilingual tools that enable governance, education, and business in regional languages. Smartphones and platforms now offer interfaces that listen, respond, and serve in our languages. Knowing English is no longer essential.

Democracy thrives when all citizens can participate fully. English as the national link language marginalises large sections of India—mainly rural and first-generation learners. According to the 2011 census, approximately 10.6 percent of the population reported the ability to speak English with varying levels of fluency. More up-to-date figures may become available once data from the forthcoming census is released. Courts, universities, and administrative systems operating primarily in English exclude those who think and speak Indian languages. Promoting Indian languages as functional languages of knowledge and governance is a democratic imperative.

As India looks ahead to its centenary of independence in 2047, we must redefine our linguistic priorities. All efforts must be made to create high-quality content, scientific research and technical education in Indian languages. AI tools should be developed to translate and generate knowledge across Indian linguistic systems. Governance should be accessible in the language of the people.

India's strength lies in its diversity. English may have its place in the global sphere, but Indian languages must be given primacy in our national life. English can be taught as any other foreign language, but should not be promoted as a national link language. India can be both multilingual and globally connected without English as the link language. Should the India of 2047 still need English to dream big, build boldly, and lead globally—or will we have found the courage to do all that in the languages of our people? Let us focus on creating an ecosystem where India speaks in its languages—confident, creative and connected to its people. That is the true language of progress.

WHAT LIES AHEAD AS IMPEACHMENT SET INTO MOTION

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE government has begun the process of the impeachment motion against Allahabad High Court judge Yashwant Varma on Monday with over 200 members of Parliament (MPs) across party lines submitted a petition seeking the removal of Justice Varma in the cash-discovery row.

A total of 145 Lok Sabha and 63 Rajya Sabha MPs have submitted notices to the presiding officers of the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha for the removal of Varma from whose residence here burnt wads of currency notes were found. The signatories to the notice included LoP) Rahul Gandhi, BJP MPs Ravi Shankar Prasad and Anurag Thakur and NCP-SP's Supriya Sule among others.

The notice was submitted to Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla under Articles 124, 217 and 218 of the Constitution.

How is impeachment done?
A notice for the removal of a judge has to be signed by not less than 100 members in the Lok Sabha and 50 in the Rajya Sabha. The motion can either be accepted or rejected by the Speaker or the Chairman.

According to the Judges (Inquiry) Act, when notices of a motion are submitted on the same day in both the Houses of Parliament, a committee to examine the charges levelled against the judge will be constituted by the Lok Sabha Speaker and the Rajya Sabha Chairman.

The Act states that no committee shall be constituted unless the motion has been admitted in both Houses.

Committee members
The committee comprising a senior judge of the Supreme Court, a sitting chief justice of a high court and a distinguished jurist will then probe the charges against Justice Varma and will be asked to come out with a report in three months.

The inquiry report will be tabled in Parliament, followed by a discussion in both Houses after which there will be voting on the motion for the removal of Justice Varma.

Modi says Red Corridor fast transforming into green zones of development ● 'Debate will happen if govt permits'

Session a proud celebration of Op Sindoor success: PM

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Monday described the Monsoon Session of Parliament as a proud celebration of India's recent achievements, placing particular emphasis on the success of Operation Sindoor, during which Indian soldiers, he said, achieved their objectives with 100% success, showcasing country's growing military strength and precision.

"The Monsoon Session stands as a proud moment for the nation, a true celebration of our collective triumphs," the Prime Minister said, addressing media ahead of the session on the parliament premises.

"The world has witnessed the strength of India's military power." He added that the armed forces successfully neutralised key terrorist masterminds in their hideouts with remarkable speed and accuracy, completing the mission in just 22 minutes.

"The success of Operation Sindoor has increased global interest in India's emerging 'Made in India' defence capabilities," he said, adding that several global leaders had praised India's indigenous military technologies during recent interactions.

Prime Minister, then, spoke of the broader impact of such operations in boosting domestic innovation, employment, and strategic confidence. "This spirit will drive research, innovation, and manufacturing in India's defence sector — creating new opportunities for our youth," he said.

On internal security, Modi declared that the government's efforts have led to a sharp decline in Naxal and Maoist influence. "India has endured many violent challenges — be it terrorism or Naxalism — but today, the Constitution prevails over bombs and guns," he asserted. He said the so-called Red Corridor is fast transforming into "green zones of growth and development."

Modi also highlighted India's space achievements, and said that the tricolour had recently been unfurled at the International Space Station for the first time, a moment he called "a source of immense pride for every Indian citizen."

On the economic front, Modi underlined India's transformation from being one of the Fragile Five economies to nearing the status of the world's third-largest. "Twenty-five crore people have come out of poverty, inflation is down to 2%, and India's growth remains strong," he said.

Modi later held a closed-door meeting with senior BJP leaders, to chalk out the party's floor strategy for the coming days.

Rahul: Never allowed to speak in House, it's my right as LoP

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

HITTING out at the government, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Monday said that as Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha, it is his right to speak in the House, a right he claimed, is being denied.

"I am the Leader of Opposition, it is my right. I am never allowed to speak," Gandhi told reporters outside Parliament, as the House witnessed repeated adjournments on the first day of the Monsoon session.

His remarks came after opposition MPs, led by the Congress, created a ruckus demanding a discussion on Operation Sindoor. The House was adjourned twice amid noisy protests and slogan-shouting by the opposition benches.

"The question is that the Defence Minister and their (the BJP) people are allowed to speak, but if someone from the Opposition wants to say something, he is not allowed," Gandhi said. Taking a dig at Prime Minister Narendra Modi, he added, "He ran out of the House in a second."

Gandhi asserted that the opposition merely wanted to make brief remarks but was denied the opportunity. Earlier in the day, Speaker Om Birla had attempted to restore order by assuring members that they would be allowed to raise issues after Question Hour, and urged them to follow due process.

Birla also confirmed that any member who submits a notice will be given time to speak. The House earlier paid tribute to eight former MPs, victims of the Pahalgam terror attack, and those killed in Ahmedabad plane crash.

Shocking, inexplicable: Jairam on resignation of Dhankhar

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

IN a move that has stunned the political establishment, Vice President and RS Chairman Jagdeep Dhankhar tendered his resignation late Monday evening, prompting a wave of reactions across party lines.

Congress leader Jairam Ramesh described the resignation as "shocking and inexplicable," raising questions about the abrupt nature of the development.

"I was with him alongside a number of other MPs till around 5 PM today and had spoken to him over the phone at 7:30 PM. There was absolutely no indication of anything amiss," Ramesh said in a statement posted on X.

While Dhankhar cited health reasons, Ramesh suggested that there may be more to the resignation than meets the eye. "No doubt Mr. Dhankhar has to give topmost priority to his health. But clearly, there is far more to his totally unexpected resignation than meets the eye," he said, adding, "This is not the time for speculation though."

The Vice President had scheduled a crucial meeting of the Rajya Sabha Business Advisory Committee for Tuesday at 1 PM and was expected to announce significant measures related to the judiciary—making the timing of his resignation even more perplexing.

Today 63 MPs have submitted the notice for the impeachment of Justice Yashwant Verma.

Ramesh also underscored Dhankhar's role as a constitutional authority who did not shy away from calling out both the Government and the Opposition. "He took both the Government and the Opposition to task in equal measure," the Congress leader said.

Appealing to the Vice President to reconsider his decision, Ramesh said, "We wish him the best of health but also request him to reconsider his decision. We also expect the Prime Minister to get Mr. Dhankhar to change his mind. This will be in the nation's interest. The farming community particularly will be greatly relieved."

Dhankhar, 74, took office in August 2022 and was set to serve until 2027. His resignation makes him the sixth Vice President of India to step down before completing a full term.

Minister says aircraft crash probe 'unbiased'

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

IN the Rajya Sabha on Monday, Union Civil Aviation Minister K. Rammohan Naidu defended the Aircraft Accident Investigation Bureau (AAIB), which is probing the crash of AI 171, stating that it is "totally unbiased" and conducting a definitive, thorough, and rule-based investigation to ascertain the exact cause of the accident.

Amid ongoing speculation about the potential role of the pilots in the accident, Naidu clarified that the AAIB's preliminary report outlines only what is currently known, based on the cockpit voice recorder and flight data recorder. "I can say this in the House that the AAIB has a very definitive and thorough rule-based process. They are very transparently looking at the (investigation) process right now, and they are totally unbiased."

Responding to supplementary questions during Question Hour on the first day of the House in the monsoon session of parliament, the minister said, "We want to stand by the truth. We want to find out what exactly happened, and that is only going to come out once the final report (of AAIB) is tabled. We have to respect the process of investigation, and once that happens, then we can talk about what happened, how it happened, and then corrective measures can be taken."

The AAIB recently released its interim report on the crash involving an Air India Boeing 787-8 aircraft en route from Ahmedabad to London Gatwick on June 12, claiming the lives of 260 individuals, including 19 people on the ground.

Naidu said media, in India and the West, were presenting diverse viewpoints and narratives. "I want to tell you that the way we are seeing the probe is through facts," he said.

NMC warns against UG admission in four foreign medical colleges

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

STUDENTS ASKED TO EXERCISE CAUTION

NMC issues alert about medical colleges — Central American Health and Sciences University, Belize, on the eastern coast of Central America, Columbus Central University, Belize, Washington University of Health and Sciences, Belize, and Chirchik Branch of Tashkent State Medical University, Uzbekistan.

They lacked compliance with Indian medical education standards, had inadequate or non-existent university campus infra, poor quality of educational and clinical training facilities, reported instances of harassment of Indian students, charged excessive fees and denied fee refunds upon withdrawal from the course

THE National Medical Commission (NMC) on Monday "strictly advised" medical aspirants not to seek undergraduate medical courses in three medical colleges in Central America and one in Uzbekistan. Failure to adhere to the advisory will result in ineligibility for medical registration in India, it said.

These medical colleges are - Central American Health and Sciences University, Belize, on the eastern coast of Central America; Columbus Central University, Belize; Washington University of Health and Sciences, Belize; and Chirchik Branch of Tashkent State Medical University, Uzbekistan.

The alert was issued after the Indian Embassy in Mexico and the Eurasia Division of the Ministry of External Affairs flagged serious concerns that these medical institutions were not meeting the required Indian standards in medical education.

"It is also advised that before seeking admission to any foreign medical institute or university, the prospective students and their parents are strongly advised to carefully read the alert/advisory uploaded on the National Medical Commission (NMC) website dated May 19, 2025," said the alert issued by Sukh Lal Meena, Director, Under-Graduate Medical Education Board (UGMEB).

The NMC had issued such public alerts earlier on August 8, 2023, and November 22, 2024. In the notices, the NMC had advised Indian students aspiring to obtain medical qualifications from foreign institutions and seeking registration to practice allopathy in India to ensure strict compliance with the Foreign Medical Graduate Licentiate (FMGL) Regulations, 2021. The FMGL was notified on November 18, 2021.

The NMC said, "Students were specifically cautioned that any deviation in duration of the course, medium of instruction, syllabus and curriculum, clinical training and internship, or clerkship arrangements may result in disqualification from obtaining registration in India."

"Despite these advisories, it has been observed that Indian students continue to seek admission to foreign medical institutions which do not meet the required standards," the alert said.

ECI files affidavit in SC, defends SIR in Bihar

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Election Commission of India (ECI) on Monday filed an affidavit in the Supreme Court defending the special intensive revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in Bihar, asserting that the exercise was being undertaken to restore the public confidence. The affidavit was submitted in compliance with the SC's July 10 directive asking the commission to file a counter-affidavit in the matter by July 21.

It may be recalled that the two-judge vacation bench comprising Justices Sudhanshu Dhulia and Joymalya Bagchi that is hearing the matter had refused to stay the Bihar voter list revision in its July 10 order. "In our prima facie view, since the list is not exhaustive, it would be in the interest of justice for the ECI to also consider the Aadhaar card, electoral photo identity card issued by the election commission and the ration card," the bench had said.

The petitions, challenging the ECI's June 24 order initiating the SIR in poll-bound Bihar, were filed by civil society organisations and political leaders, namely the Association for Democratic Reforms, People's Union for Civil Liberties, Trinamool Congress MP Mahua Moitra, RJD MP Manoj Kumar Jha, Congress leader KC Venugopal and former Bihar MLA Mujahid Alam.

Through its affidavit, the poll body informed the apex court that over 90% of electors had already submitted enumeration forms. "Apart from ensuring that no eligible elector is left out of the rolls, special attention is being given to marginalised and vulnerable communities," the ECI said.

The commission also justified the exclusion of the Aadhaar card from the list of documents used in the revision exercise, noting that it does not serve as proof of citizenship under Article 326 of the Constitution. However, it clarified that the list of acceptable documents was indicative and not exhaustive.

Strongly defending the exercise that has sparked a political row, the poll body submitted that the SIR was initiated following concerns raised by political parties across the spectrum. "This is the first time that all political parties have been involved at such a scale in an intensive revision exercise, with over 1.5 lakh booth-level agents working alongside booth-level officers to reach out to every eligible elector," the ECI contended.

The SC is expected to hear the matter next on July 28.

"Is he your friend? He is still Justice Varma," said, CJI B R Gavai, on Monday during a hearing when advocate Mathews Nedumpara referred to Justice Yashwant Varma by his surname in the Supreme Court. 'Russian woman may have left India with kid'

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday expressed its displeasure at the Centre's submission in a case that the Russian woman fighting with her estranged Indian husband for their child's custody has gone missing and probably went back to Russia.

The two-judge Bench of Justices Surya Kant and Joymalya Bagchi called the situation "unacceptable" and observed that it was "gross contempt of court". The Bench said in its order on Monday: "Her passport is seized. How could she get a duplicate passport? It could not have been possible without the help of some officials at the Russian Embassy. It is a gross contempt of court. It is totally unacceptable. We will be passing some harsh orders and direct for issuing a Red Corner Notice."

The Centre's submission that the woman had left India came as a surprise, as it had previously told the SC that she had not left the country, at least through legal means.

BJP unleashing 'linguistic terrorism' on Bengalis: Didi

KAUSHIK PRADHAN @ Kolkata

SETTING the Trinamool Congress' strategy for the West Bengal Assembly elections in 2026, party chief Mamata Banerjee said on Monday that "harassment" of Bengali-speaking people in BJP-ruled states won't be tolerated and directed her party workers to launch a "language movement" on July 27 which will continue till the polls are over. She also called for ousting the BJP-led government at the Centre after 2026.

"We will get more seats in 2026 and then Delhi will be our next target. We will have to remove the BJP from power," she said, addressing the TMC's Martyrs' Day rally in Kolkata.

"Our fight for identity and language will continue till the BJP is defeated, in the state and at the Centre. From July 27, we will launch a language movement against the BJP's terrorism on Bengali language. The movement will start on Nanoor Divas in West Bengal, protesting attacks on Bengalis and will continue till Assembly polls next year," she said.

Banerjee claimed that fearing development works in Bengal, the BJP is doing politics of deprivation. "Why have they unleashed terrorism on Bengali language? Bengal fought for independence. The renaissance has come from Bengal. If people of Bengal are arrested outside for speaking Bengali, this fight will take place in Delhi," the Chief Minister said.

She alleged that over 1000 people have been thrown into jails in MP, Odisha and Rajasthan. "They (BJP) will decide who will eat fish, who will eat meat, who will eat eggs! A BJP leader is saying there are 17 lakh Rohingya in Bengal. Where did you find so many people in Bengal?" she asked. Citing a UN Report, the CM said 10 lakh Rohingya are in the world.

Earlier, Leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari claimed that 17 lakh Rohingya are living in Bengal under the shelter of the TMC government.

Upping her ante against the BJP, Banerjee alleged, "In 2019, they vandalised the statue of Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar. Now, they have issued notifications to delete the names of Bengalis from the voter list. In BJP-ruled states, Bengalis are being put in detention camps."

Attacking Assam CM Himanta Biswa Sarma, she said, "He cannot handle his own state but is interfering in the affairs of Bengal. I urge Sushmita Dev to organise a massive protest in Assam. We will all join." She claimed that Bengal hosts 1.5 crore migrants, but they have never faced any problem.

Banerjee said, "The BJP and Election Commission want to do in West Bengal what they did in Bihar through SIR. If they try the same here, we will gherao them."

Assamese and Hindus will end up as minority in 10 years: CM

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

CITING changes in Assam's demography reportedly as a result of illegal migration of people, Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Monday said the Assamese and the Hindus would become a minority in the state within the next 10 years.

"If you look at the demography of Assam of 1951 and now, it has reached such a stage that the Assamese and the Hindus will become a minority in 10 years. We have to revive a community staring at extinction," he told the media.

Two days ago, he had stated that the people of Assam, especially those belonging to the Hindu community, were becoming a 'hopeless minority' in their own land and this happened over a span of just 60 years.

"We have lost our culture, our land, our temples. The law gives us no remedy. That's why we are desperate—not for revenge, but for survival. Yes, we may be fighting a losing battle. But we will go down fighting—with dignity, within the law, and for the soul of our Assam," Sarma had stated while discussing the subject.

Meanwhile, a student organisation in Nagaland expressed deep concern over the possible influx of displaced "illegal immigrants" to Nagaland.

Yogi orders grant of land ownership to families displaced from East Pak

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

UTTAR Pradesh CM Yogi Adityanath on Monday directed officials to devise a time-bound plan to grant legal land ownership rights to families displaced from East Pakistan (present-day Bangladesh) who have been resettled across the state.

The Chief Minister said it is not merely a land transfer, but an opportunity to honour the decades-long struggle of thousands of families who took refuge in India and had awaited their rightful rehabilitation.

Officials said that between 1960 and 1975, the government resettled thousands of displaced families from East Pakistan in the Terai districts of Pilibhit, Lakhimpur Kheri, and the western UP districts of Bijnor and Rampur.

They were initially housed in transit camps and given agricultural land, but over 10,000 families have still not received legal ownership of the land.

The legal and administrative hurdles included land being recorded under the Forest Department, incomplete transfer procedures and the lack of physical possession.

In some areas, families from other states have also been resettled but continue to lack legal ownership of the land on which they have been settled.

The official assessment is that in many villages, displaced families have been cultivating land for years and have even constructed permanent homes, despite their names being missing from official land records.

"In contrast, some of the original allottees no longer reside in those areas. Additionally, in certain areas, individuals have taken possession of land without completing the necessary legal formalities, leading to further complications," said a senior state government official. He said the CM had instructed that the records be updated immediately. The CM said. "This effort must be viewed through the lens of social justice, humanity, and national responsibility. " He also directed for the arrangement of alternative plots for families if the original land where they had initially been settled was not available.

Raipur police lodged an FIR against e-commerce store 'Flipkart', holding it accountable for selling "banned (lethal) knives" on its platform. The knife was used in a murder and to injure one in the capital. The Raipur police have been repeatedly asking representatives of e-commerce marketplaces not to make various hazardous knives, including button, foldable, designer, or bladed items, available on their platforms for customers. There were looming concerns over the rising incidents of stabbings in the state capital. Despite the alerts, reports indicate that the sale of such prohibited knives continues unabated from online shopping companies.

Korba's coal boom costing the Earth

In India's largest coal and power producing Korba district, a recent research study has flagged alarming land degradation and a decline in forest cover. The findings underscore how the relentless expansion of coal mining, particularly open-cast operations, has drastically transformed the region's landscape, triggering severe ecological consequences. The study found that Korba's forest cover had declined dramatically from 35.56 percent in 1995 to 14 percent in 2024. The district currently has 13 operational coal mines, with four more in the pipeline. Coal production in Korba is expected to reach a peak of 180 million tonnes by 2025.

AI plane veers off runway while landing amid heavy rain at Mumbai airport

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

AN Air India aircraft from Kochi to Mumbai veered off the runway at Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj International Airport (CSMIA) amid heavy rain on Monday morning, disrupting air traffic for a while.

The plane skidded off the runway onto an unpaved area, but the pilot quickly brought it back to the paved surface.

It was grounded for inspection and maintenance checks. The primary runway—09/27—reportedly suffered minor damages. Secondary Runway 14/32 was activated to ensure uninterrupted flight operations.

An Air India spokesperson said flight AI2744, operating from Kochi to Mumbai on July 21, 2025, experienced heavy rain during landing at 9.27 am, resulting in a runway excursion after touchdown.

"The aircraft taxied safely to the gate and all passengers and crew members have since disembarked. The aircraft has been grounded for checks. The safety of passengers and crew remains our top priority," the spokesperson added.

The Mumbai airport has two intersecting runways, and only one can operate at a time, making it one of the world's busiest single-runway airports.

As per flight tracking data, the aircraft departed from Kochi at 7.43 am and landed at the Mumbai airport at 9.27 am. The aircraft involved, VT-TYA, is a four-year-old A320neo that previously operated in the Vistara fleet before the airline's merger with Air India.

1 dead, 10 hurt as landslide hits Vaishno Devi track in Jammu

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

A pilgrim was killed and six others were injured, two of them critically, when a landslide triggered by heavy rains hit the old track of Vaishno Devi shrine in Katra town of Jammu and Kashmir's Reasi district.

The yatra resumed after being suspended for a few hours after the landslide. Satish Sharma, Deputy CEO, Mata Vaishno Devi Shrine Board said at around 8.30 am, a big landslide occurred near the Pitthupaal counter, in an adjoining area, which is about approximately 300 metres from the point where the yatra starts.

According to officials, a boulder hit near Ban Ganga on an old track of the yatra. A booking office and an overhead iron structure caved in under its weight. Immediately after the incident, police, CRPF, Army and local administration launched a rescue operation.

Deputy Commissioner Reasi Nidhi Malik said that seven pilgrims were injured in the incident and were referred to Vaishno Devi Shrine Board's Narayan hospital,where 70-year-old Uppan Srivastava of Chennai succumbed to his injuries. Two are critical.

Baisaran likely to reopen after Amarnath Yatra, security nod

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THE tourist resort, Pahalgam's Baisaran Valley, also known as "Mini Switzerland" and which was closed after the April 22 terror attack, is likely to be reopened after a security review following the conclusion of the Amarnath Yatra, J&K Lt. Governor Manoj Sinha has said.

The 38-day Amarnath yatra will conclude on August 9, coinciding with Raksha Bandhan. Diverse security agencies will review the situation thereafter. Sources said, "Only after a green signal from the security agencies, the tourist destination would again be thrown open for the locals and tourists".

They stated, "The security arrangements in and around the Baisaran Valley, which is surrounded by thick forests, will be strengthened with the deployment of security personnel and round-the-clock surveillance of the tourist destination through drones, UAVs and other surveillance equipment."

There was no security in Baisaran Valley when the militant attack took place. The authorities subsequently closed the Baisaran tourist spot to undertake a security audit. Additionally, 48 other tourist destinations in the Valley were also closed, and eight of them reopened after the audit.

An official said the security agencies, including the NIA, are continuing with the massive manhunt for the three Pakistani terrorists of Lashkar-e-Toiba involved in the attack.

They continue to elude the forces. Sources said that "one of them has been identified as Suleman alias Hashim Musa, who is said to be an ex-Pakistan army commando." They said Musa is believed to be an expert in unconventional warfare and covert operations

The NIA, which has taken over the probe of the case, has identified thethree Pakistani terrorists involved in the attack. It recently arrested two locals for allegedly harbouring the militants and providing food, shelter and logistical support to them. Police have announced a bounty of ₹20 lakh each on the heads of the three.

The attack severely impacted the tourism sector, with tourists leaving the area and resulting in mass cancellations. However, the industry is recovering and tourists are again returning to the Valley. The flow of tourists to the Valley is expected to increase after the completion of the Amarnath Yatra.

In a first, Jharkhand to launch mining tourism

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

IN a first-ever initiative in India, the Jharkhand government is all set to launch a mining tourism project in the state. The Jharkhand Tourism Development Corporation (JTDC) signed a five-year Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with Central Coalfields Limited (CCL) on Monday.

CM Hemant Soren initiated the idea after watching ancient mining techniques and Neolithic era remains in Spain's Gava Museum during his recent visit to Barcelona. Jharkhand is renowned for its extensive coal, iron ore, and other mineral deposits. The government plans to help the public appreciate the heritage of these mines and the mining process by promoting theme-based and sustainable tourism in the state. Tourists will have the opportunity to experience coal mines, mining processes, equipment, and historical features related to mining firsthand.

Tourists will have the opportunity to experience coal mines, mining processes, equipment, & historical features related to mining firsthand
IN THE PIPELINE
Initially, North Urimari Mines in Ramgarh will be developed as a tourist destination
The state tourism development corporation will book small groups of 10 to 20 tourists
Nearby natural attractions, such as Palani Falls, and Tiru Falls, will be incorporated into this circuit to create a holistic tourism experience
The government plans to develop three special mining tourism circuits — Eco-Mining Circuit-1, Eco-Mining Circuit-2, and a religious circuit

Tourism Minister Sudivya Kumar said, "We have taken the first step towards mining tourism in the state in collaboration with CCL, and the mining area will attract tourists, common people and educational groups."

In the initial phase, North Urimari Mines in Ramgarh district will be developed as a tourist destination. JTDC will book small groups of 10 to 20 tourists, while CCL will ensure logistics, security and guides, sources said. Further, nearby natural attractions will be incorporated into this circuit.

The government plans to develop three special mining tourism circuits — Eco-Mining Circuit-1, Eco-Mining Circuit-2, and a religious circuit — to promote tourism and create economic opportunities. JTDC will also work towards developing closed-down mining sites from a tourism perspective.

Forces recover huge cache of explosives

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

SECURITY forces on Sunday recovered a huge cache of explosives, including 14 IEDs, reportedly planted by Maoists from the forest area on the border of West Singhbhum and Seraikela Kharsawan districts in Jharkhand during a joint search operation.

The operation was conducted on the basis of a tip-off about a cache of ammunition hidden in the jungles. A joint team of Jharkhand Police, Jharkhand Jaguar and the 60th battalion of the CRPF was formed for the same. Besides the IEDs, the team recovered handmade grenades, ammonium nitrate powder, firecracker powder and steel containers.

Artificial rain may fill Jaipur's Ramgarh dam after 20 yrs, thanks to drones & AI

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

Once considered the lifeline of Jaipur

Ramgarh Dam, located near Jaipur, is a historic structure built by Maharaja Sawai Madho Singh in 1903. Once considered the lifeline of Jaipur, the dam supplied the city with drinking water from 1931 until the 1980s.

AFTER an over two-decade wait, Jaipur's Ramgarh Dam may soon witness a rare and high-tech spectacle—artificial rain through cloud seeding. Preparations are underway for the exercise, expected to take place in August. The agriculture department has partnered with an American company to carry out this ambitious plan.

Senior scientists from the US-based firm have arrived in Jaipur and are finalising the groundwork. Uniquely, this may be the first time in India that artificial rain will be created using drones and AI technology. According to sources, specially designed drones—ordered from Taiwan—will fly thousands of feet above the ground and release sodium chloride into moisture-laden clouds, triggering rainfall. Previously, aircraft were used for cloud seeding in India.

The Jaipur district administration recently organised a meeting of officials of the water resources and meteorology departments, the Pollution Control Board, and the Americans. The final phase will begin once the project gets approval from the Director General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) in New Delhi.

Agriculture Minister Kirori Lal Meena held discussions with the American company in June to push forward this experimental initiative. If the process proves successful, artificial rain will be carried out for several days to ensure the Ramgarh Dam gets fully recharged. All related data will be recorded and studied over a month.

Ramgarh Dam, located near Jaipur, is a historic structure built by Maharaja Sawai Madho Singh in 1903. Once considered the lifeline of Jaipur, the dam supplied the city with drinking water from 1931 until the 1980s. With a storage capacity of 75 million cubic meters at its peak, the dam held so much water that it even hosted a boating competition during the 1982 Asian Games. However, over the years, the dam's catchment area and inflow channels choked due to illegal constructions and encroachments. Since 2005, the reservoir has remained completely dry, marking the beginning of a long and continuing drought for this once-thriving water body.

25 countries denounce Israel's Gaza offensive, call for end to war

Censure comes on day when Tel Aviv launched first attack on central Gazan city Deir al-Balah

LONDON

TWENTY-FIVE countries including Britain, France and a host of European nations issued a joint statement on Monday saying the war in Gaza "must end now" and Israel must comply with international law.

The foreign ministers of countries including Australia, Canada and Japan said "the suffering of civilians in Gaza has reached new depths" and condemned "the drip feeding of aid and the inhumane killing of civilians, including children, seeking to meet their most basic needs of water and food."

"The Israeli government's aid delivery model is dangerous, fuels instability and deprives Gazans of human dignity," the statement said.

"The Israeli government's denial of essential humanitarian assistance to the civilian population is unacceptable. Israel must comply with its obligations under international humanitarian law," it added.

The signatories included the foreign ministers of about 20 European countries as well as Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and the EU commissioner for equality, preparedness and crisis management.

The U.S. and Germany did not sign the statement.

The signatories called for an immediate ceasefire, adding they are prepared to take action to support a political pathway to peace in the region.

Gaza's population of more than 2 million Palestinians is in a catastrophic humanitarian crisis, now relying largely on the limited aid allowed into the territory. Many people have been displaced multiple times.

Hamas triggered the war when militants stormed into southern Israel on Oct. 7, 2023, killing around 1,200 people and taking 251 others hostage. Fifty remain in Gaza, but fewer than half are thought to be alive.

Israel's military offensive has killed more than 59,000 Palestinians, according to Gaza's Health Ministry. Its count doesn't distinguish between militants and civilians but the ministry says more than half of the dead are women and children. The ministry is part of the Hamas government, but the U.N. and other international organizations see it as the most reliable source of data on casualties.

Smoke and flames erupt from an Israeli airstrike in Gaza City on Monday. At least 80 Palestinians were killed while trying to access food | AP

Israel and Hamas have been holding ceasefire talks in Qatar. Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has repeatedly asserted that expanding Israel's military operations in Gaza will pressure Hamas in negotiations.

Gaza saw its deadliest day yet for aid-seekers in over 21 months of war as more than 80 Palestinians were killed while trying to acces food.

20 DEAD AS B'DESH AIRFORCE JET CRASHES INTO SCHOOL

DHAKA

A Bangladeshi fighter jet crashed into a school in the capital Dhaka on Monday, killing at least 20 people and injuring more than 170 in the country's deadliest aviation accident in decades.

Many of the victims were young students who had just been let out of class when a Chinese-made F-7 BJI aircraft slammed into the Milestone School and College.

An AFP photographer at the scene saw fire and rescue officials taking away the injured students on stretchers, while army personnel helped clear the mangled wreckage.

A military statement said 20 people were killed, including the pilot, and 171 others injured when the jet crashed following a mechanical failure.

An 18-year-old student, Shafiur Rahman Shafi, said he heard a huge blast that felt like an earthquake."There were two fighter planes... Suddenly one of the two planes crashed here (in the junior playground)," he told AFP. "It created a boom, and it felt like a quake. Then it caught fire, and the army reached the spot later."

The well-known private school offers education to children from kindergarten through to senior secondary.

Most of the injured were aged between eight and 14, said Mohammad Maruf Islam, joint director of Dhaka's National Burn and Plastic Surgery Institute where many victims were treated.Grieving relatives of the victims thronged the hospital, while dozens of volunteers lined up ready to donate blood.

Tofazzal Hossain, 30, broke down in tears on learning that his young cousin had been killed. "We frantically searched for my cousin in different hospitals," Hossain told AFP. "He was an eighth grader at the school. Finally, we found his body." The military said the pilot was on a routine training mission when the jet "reportedly encountered a mechanical failure".

"The exact cause remains under investigation," it said in a statement.

The pilot tried to divert the aircraft away from densely populated areas but, "despite his best efforts", crashed into the two-storey school building, the military added. The government of Muhammad Yunus, who Yunus expressed "deep grief and sorrow", announced a day of national mourning on Tuesday.

The crashed jet is a Chinese-built variant of the Soviet MiG-21 fighter jet. China had stopped its production in 2013. The aircraft is still used by Bangladesh, Pakistan, Sri Lanka and other countries

I-T Bill: Panel proposes key changes

LS panel recommends over 30 key changes including in definitions, deductions, among others

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE 31-member select committee of Lok Sabha on the Income Tax Bill, 2025 has recommended over 30 key changes in the bill, suggesting changes in definitions, clarification on various deductions as well as reinstatement of a few provisions dropped in the bill. The report by the committee headed by BJP leader Baijayant Panda was presented in the Lok Sabha on Monday.

The Committee has suggested changes in definition of capital asset, infrastructure capital company, MSME, while clarifying property-related deductions, and reinforcing the 'actual payment' rule for business expenses.

The committee has proposed the reinstatement provision enabling the tax department to issue a nil withholding tax certificate for specific payments. This clause was initially omitted from the draft bill, which previously only permitted certificates for low TDS deductions. It has also recommended permitting refund claims even where returns are not filed on time.

Lok Sabha panel suggested changes in definition of capital asset, infra capital company, MSME, while clarifying property-related deductions, and reinforcing the 'actual payment' rule for business expenses

SIMPLIFYING THINGS

Panel has proposed reinstatement provision enabling tax department to issue a nil withholding tax certificate for specific payments

The House committee has also recommended permitting refund claims even where income tax returns are not filed on time

The report addresses concerns of charitable and not-for-profit entities by advocating clearer definitions, replacing "receipts" with "income" for tax purposes

It suggests inclusion of professionals under electronic payment norms, prescribes qualifications for valuers, and recommends contextual fairness in GAAR provisions

In a major relief, the panel has stated the benefit of tax deduction relevant to inter corporate dividends in multi-tiered structures must be extended to companies that chose the 22% tax rate

The report addresses concerns of charitable and not-for-profit entities by advocating clearer definitions, replacing "receipts" with "income" for tax purposes, and restoring the concept of "deemed application". Further, it urges inclusion of professionals under electronic payment norms, prescribes qualifications for valuers, and recommends contextual fairness in GAAR provisions.

In a major relief, the panel has noted that the benefit of tax deduction relevant to inter corporate dividends in multi-tiered structures must also be extended to companies that chose the 22% tax rate, as is the case now. The Income Tax Bill, 2025 was tabled in February and was referred to the Select Committee for proposing changes, if any. The Income Tax Bill has been drafted to simplify the tax rules of the country. The bill has stayed away from making any structural changes and focused more on simplifying the language. The Select Committee in its report has also not recommended any significant changes. Rohinton Sidhwa, Partner, Deloitte India, says that most of the amendments in the latest round are corrective and meant to fix errors in drafting from the first draft released for public comment.

The report has in fact clarified that recommendations involving policy-level changes fall beyond the scope and objectives of the IT Bill, 2025.

Titan to buy majority stake in Damas Jewellery, expand presence in GCC countries

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

TITAN COMPANY has entered into an agreement to acquire a 67% stake in Dubai-based jewellery firm Damas from Qatar-based Mannai Corporation. The consideration for the proposed transaction is based on an enterprise value of AED 1,038 million ($282 mn).

The Tata Group company, which runs Tanishq jewellery stores in India and abroad, would also have the option to acquire the balance 33% stake from Mannai after December 31, 2029.

Titan said the acquisition is strategically significant for its jewellery business as it will facilitate expansion across the 6 Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) countries of the UAE, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Oman, Kuwaij and Bahrain. The current Graff Monobrand Franchisee business of Damas LLC will be discontinued before completion of the proposed transaction (on or before January 31, 2026). CK Venkataraman, MD of Titan, said after establishing Tanishq in the GCC countries and the USA, their ambition for a global jewellery play is moving to the next stage.

"With Damas acquisition, Titan is stepping out from its diaspora focus into other nationalities and ethnicities...The acquisition not only creates a major new global opportunity for Titan, but also enhances Titan's overall position in jewellery market in the GCC countries and brings in multiple synergy benefits in talent, retail networks and supply chain," added Venkataraman. Founded in 1907, Damas has 146 stores across the six GCC countries and retails in-house and international labels. Damas LLC reported revenue of AED 1,461 million in 2024.

Alekh Grewal, group CEO of Mannai Corporation, said Mannai will continue to own a minority stake in Damas for the next 4 years as the growth plans for Damas are taken forward.

Sebi lifts Jane Street ban after ₹4,844 crore escrow deposit

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

CAPITAL markets regulator SEBI on Monday confirmed that Jane Street has been allowed to resume trading in India after the US-based derivative trading company deposited Rs 4,844 crore in an escrow account.

Sebi has directed Jane Street entities to refrain from any fraudulent, manipulative, or unfair trading practices. The firms have confirmed their commitment to full compliance. Stock exchanges have been instructed to monitor Jane Street's activities closely. "In terms of para 62.11 of the interim order in the matter of index manipulation by the Jane Street group dated July 3, 2025 ('interim order'), upon compliance with the directions in clause 62.1 (creation of an escrow account with a lien marked in favor of SEBI, for an amount of ₹4,843,57,70,168), the directions stipulated in clauses 62.2, 62.3, 62.4, 62.5, 62.7, 62.8, and 62.10 of the interim order shall cease to apply," SEBI said in a statement on Monday.

Sebi lifted the trading ban it had imposed on July 3 on the US-based proprietary trading giant after Jane Street deposited ₹4,843.5 crore with the regulator last week. The market was abuzz with rumours last week that Jane Street is back in action in the market and has resumed trading. "It was logical for the trading ban to be lifted as Sebi's interim order mentioned that if the company paid the designated amount on or before July 14, the ban would be lifted," market sources had earlier told TNIE.

Jane Street India could not be reached for comment.

On July 3, SEBI had issued a 105-page interim order — along with over 500 pages of annexures — banning the algo trading firm for manipulating the market, especially index derivatives. At ₹4,843.5 crore in penal charges or disgorgement, this marks the largest-ever penalty SEBI has imposed on any entity. According to the order issued by Whole-Time Member Anantha Narayan G, Jane Street had made huge illicit gains through a pump-and-dump strategy in Bank Nifty component stocks across 21 expiry days between January 2023 and May 2025. The firm had reportedly earned a staggering ₹36,005 crore in net profit from these trades alone.

It was logical for trading ban to be lifted as Sebi's order said if company paid the amount on or before Jul 14, ban will be lifted

Hyundai Creta dominates Indian roads even decade after launch in the country

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

A few cars define an era and reshape market dynamics. The Hyundai Creta is one of them. Completing a decade on Indian roads, the Korean carmaker's bold move to introduce a mid-size sports utility vehicle (SUV) in a market dominated by budget-friendly hatchbacks not only mainstreamed the segment but also made it one of the most competitive.

Sales-wise, Creta now not only leads the SUV segment but the overall Indian passenger vehicle market. So far in CY25 (Jan–June), Creta has been the best-selling SUV in India and has emerged as the top-selling model across all categories in 3 out of 6 months this year. As per industry data, Creta is the second best-selling car in the first half (January-June) of CY25. Despite slowdown seen in the car market, Creta sales during this period rose 10% to 100,560 units, marginally lower than 101,424 units clocked by Maruti Suzuki's WagonR. The small difference in sales between the two models is notable, considering that the Creta comes with a much higher price tag than an entry-level hatchback.

Maruti's Dzire, Brezza and Swift are other best-selling cars. Annual sales of Creta have more than doubled since its launch (92,926 units in CY16 to 186,919 units in CY24). Over 1.2 million units of the SUV have been sold in India, an unparalleled feat in mid-size SUV space. The made-in-India Creta is exported to 13 countries and so far, HMIL has exported over 2.87 lakh units. Despite increased competition and presence of a dozen models, Creta dominates mid-size SUV segment with over 31% market share in Indian automotive industry. Industry experts cite robust reliability, multiple powertrain options, and excellent resale value as the key reasons why the Creta remains the top choice for many SUV buyers.

Unlike many models which come with a single powertrain option, Creta is available in petrol, diesel, turbo and electric, and offers manual and automatic transmission options. As per reports, Creta will be Hyundai's first hybrid offering in India, slated to arrive with its next-generation upgrade in 2027. Unsoo Kim, MD of Hyundai Motor India (HMIL), said, "Over the past 10 years, it has become the gold standard for the Indian SUV buyer."

Creta sales rise 10% during Jan-Jun period

According to industry data, Creta is the second best-selling car in the first half (January-June) of CY25. Despite slowdown seen in the car market, Creta sales during this period rose 10% to 100,560 units, marginally lower than 101,424 units clocked by Maruti Suzuki's WagonR

CoinDCX launches recovery bounty after crypto theft

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

CRYPTOEXCHANGE CoinDCX on Monday announced it is launching Recovery Bounty Programme, which will offer up to 25% of the recovered assets. This helps retrieving impacted funds and assists in the identification and conviction of the attackers.

Last week, it lost $44 million (about ₹368 cr) worth of assets in a cyber attack. CoinDCX said 25% of successfully recovered funds will be awarded to partners who play an active role in retrieving stolen crypto in the incident and assist in identification and conviction of attackers. Bounty pool has potential of up to $11 million in value in the scenario of a full recovery.

Last year, a cyberattack on WazirX led to theft of about ₹2,000 crore. Later in September, the exchange filed a moratorium application in Singapore Court. "Cybercrime is an attack on trust. When one of us is targeted, all of us are affected. CoinDCX is committed to turning this incident to strengthen defenses, reinforce transparency, and work with the best minds in the industry to make recovery real and replicable," said Neeraj Khandelwal, co-founder, CoinDCX. "We are collaborating with the exchange partner to block and recover assets. At the same time, we are launching a bounty program. Thank you for the support and kind messages from this community during these challenging times. Your trust means everything to us and we're more committed than ever to uphold it. We will emerge from this stronger, together," he added.

VC investment up at $3.5 bn in Q2 from $2.8 bn

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

VENTURE Capital (VC) investment in India has surged from $2.8 billion across 456 deals in Q1 to $3.5 billion across 355 deals in the second quarter of 2025. As per the latest edition of Venture Pulse from KPMG Private Enterprise, fintech remained one of the hottest sectors of investment in India.

The report said global VC investment fell from $128.4 billion in Q1'25 to $101.05 billion in Q2'25. Despite the drop, Q2'25 remained a relatively strong quarter despite ongoing geopolitical conflicts, trade tensions, and macroeconomic uncertainty. The focus on VC investors remained largely on large-scale opportunities, especially in the AI and defencetech space, it added. "Despite a challenging global environment, marked by geopolitical tensions and trade-related uncertainties, Q2'25 showed VC investment remains resilient — in sectors that are driving long-term tech transformation," said Conor Moore, global head of private enterprise at KPMG International, and Partner at KPMG in the US. "While investors are taking cautious approach to investments, there's conviction behind the megadeals we're seeing in areas like AI, defencetech, and fintech. What we're seeing is a reallocation of capital, not a retreat," Moore added. In India, a $218 million seed round raised by PB Healthcare — a start-up focused on developing a tech-enabled health delivery platform — was the country's largest VC investment of Q2'25, followed by $200 million raised by on-demand logistics company Porter and investment platform Grow.

Ireda eyes 30% loan growth; to raise ₹3,000 crore in second round of QIP

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

THE country's largest renewable energy financier Ireda is bolstering its equity capital base with a second round of QIP issue worth at least ₹3,000 crore as the state-run company sees over 30% loan growth this fiscal. It will also be raising ₹30,000 crore in debt capital.

The Maharatna company had raised ₹2,005 crore in the first tranche of the QIP issue, through which the government had diluted 3.2% stake from. The government had approved a total of 7% dilution this fiscal. "We had raised ₹2005.9 crore through the first tranche of the qualified institutional placement last month, through which the government diluted 3.2% of its stake. Since the government mandate to the board to bring it down by 7% this fiscal, we have scope for 3.8% more dilution, which should fetch us nearly ₹3,000 crore. The second tranche will definitely happen this fiscal," Indian Renewable Energy Development Agency (Ireda) chairman and managing director Pradip Kumar Das told reporters here on Monday.

"Another QIP tranche will give us about ₹3,000 crore, giving us borrowing power to the tune of ₹30,000 crore and then we can lend 8x more of that. We will try to optimise our equity and our borrowing so that we can optimise lending and minimise the borrowing cost," Das said. On the projected loan growth, he said, "Last two years we have been growing 27-30%. When the country net added 27-30 gw of green power last year, we grew at 29%. Given that first quarter of this fiscal already saw an addition of 14 gw, if the momentum is maintained it will be 52 gw by March 2026. So if at all we add 50 gw of new installed capacity there is ample scope for our loans growing much above 30%."

Of the 484.8 gw of total installed power capacity, as much as 242.8 gw is based on renewable or low-carbon sources and the government target is to take the green portion to 50% of the total or 500 gw by 2030.

Dawson replaces Bashir in Eng XI

England on Monday replaced off-spinner Shoaib Bashir with slow left-arm orthodox bowler Liam Dawson as their only change in the playing eleven for the fourth Test against India which starts on July 23. England lead 2-1 in the five-match Anderson-Tendulkar Trophy having won the first and the third Tests at the Headingley and Lord's respectively.

With Kohli just a call away, Haseeb plots Eng return

FIROZ MIRZA @ Manchester

BACK when England toured India in the winter of 2016, one photo from the dressing room went viral on Twitter (now X). Haseeb Hameed, little finger on the left hand in a cast after breaking it during the third Test at Mohali, had met Virat Kohli. One particular caption, tongue firmly in cheek, had said 'world's greatest batsman with Kohli'. Hameed, nicknamed 'Baby Boycs' had already impressed with his technique. In England's second innings of the third Test, Hameed, with a fracture, fought through the pain to compile a gutsy, unbeaten 156-ball 59.

His valour was what had earned a trip from the Indian captain. Nine years later, Hameed, now a veteran, revealed that the bond he had formed with Kohli has remained. The 28-year-old 10-Test English opener was intimate about the unlikely relationship — he has Kohli on speed dial — he has had with the former Indian captain. "Actually, within the cricketing circle, Virat's been super helpful," the Lancashire-born cricketer said when asked about the people he turns to in times of advice. "Every time I've had any sort of query or question about batting, he's been more than willing to give his time. It's not just a short period of time. He's happy to go as long as we need. I've got a lot of respect for him. In terms of what he's done for me as a person, as a player, even through my difficult moments, I think it speaks a lot about him as a character and his kind of humility and the way he goes about things."

Kohli shared his number with Haseeb after that meeting. "Virat, in that first tour, playing against him, I was lucky enough to speak to him at the end of my tour. When I had my injury, he was kind enough to spare me a few moments. He shared his number with me and said, 'If ever you want to reach out, please feel free to do so.' But no, I mean, again, that just speaks of what an incredible person. He's probably the biggest superstar in the game, maybe even ever, if you look at his kind of social media following. So for him to be so willing to kind of give his time and personal space to someone, he didn't need to do that. I was a young kid, 19-year-old. Yeah, like he didn't need to do that. But the fact that he was so willing and able to do that was, yeah, speaks testament of him as a character."

Apart from Kohli, Hashim Amla, former South Africa player, also lends advice whenever Haseeb needs it. "Yeah, Hashim is another one, actually. He's been really helpful as well. A couple of guys that I just love talking about batting to because they're both obviously incredible players, but also understand the game too." Hameed, who moved to Notts from Lancashire in 2020, is yet to play for England under the current regime but he's doing his bit, at least in terms of run-scoring. In 2024, he was the fourth highest with 1091 at an average of 51.9. In the ongoing edition in the County Championship's top-tier, he's second with 848 at an average of 70.6, apart from a slight uptick in strike rate (61.2 compared to 53.2). "Hopefully, obviously the selection part of it is not in our hands," he said. "Ultimately, you know, I've got a job to do when I play for Nottinghamshire. Obviously, I'm captain as well. So when I'm at Notts, I'm fully immersed in trying to do the best I can for the team and contribute and know that, you know, those England ambitions, which are always there and always will be there, will be looked after hopefully by me putting in performances for Nottinghamshire."

INDIA HOPING TO FIND RIGHT PACE

Kamboj in limelight with Akash Deep's fitness still an issue as Gill and Co train ahead of the Manchester game

@MANCHESTER

UNLIKE Sunday, it was a bright and sunny morning here at the Old Trafford Cricket Ground on Monday. The surface, which had been under cover due to rain, probably saw the sunlight for the first time in many days.

Despite it being a cheerful day with a lot of happenings on the field, India pacer Akash Deep looked seemingly lost in his thoughts. He was leaning on a roller with padded-up Abhimanyu Easwaran and Dhruv Jurel to his company even as other India pacers were whizzing past him to bowl in the nets at the Trafford Cricket Centre. Be it Jasprit Bumrah or Mohammed Siraj or Shardul Thakur or Prasidh Krishna or new addition to the squad Anshul Kamboj, everybody was going full throttle. The pacers were also seen chatting with Akash Deep while waiting for their turn to bowl but the Bengal bowler's mind seemed to be somewhere else.

Earlier, he bowled quite a few balls on the surface adjacent to the main square with coach Gautam Gambhir, chief selector Ajit Agarkar and a few others in attendance. Starting with zero run up, he gradually increased it to gain the momentum and pace. But that was it once the team members shifted to adjoining practice nets. Akash Deep, who reportedly has a groin injury casting a doubt on his appearance, was just a spectator even as his teammates toiled.

As was reported on Sunday, the BCCI on Monday morning clarified that Andhra all-rounder Nitish Kumar Reddy has been ruled out of the series with a knee injury and Arshdeep Singh too was out of contention for the next match due to impact injury on his bowling thumb but the Indian cricket board didn't give any update on Akash Deep. However, it was evidently clear from the net session that the 28-year-old is unlikely to be a part of the game. His absence coupled with injuries to Reddy and Arshdeep forced the visitors to fly in Kamboj to join the squad. The Haryana seamer not only bowled for almost an hour but also batted alongside Thakur for more than 30 minutes giving indication that he might be in line to make his India debut. Kamboj has played 24 first class matches claiming 79 wickets so far. He was also part of India A team which played two matches against England Lions before the five-match series started. The 24-year-old right-arm bowler picked up five wickets and scored an unbeaten 51 in the second game in Northampton.

Later in the day, Siraj confirmed Bumrah will play the match. Despite that Shubman Gill and Co need to try a lot of permutations and combinations to fill up the spot left vacant by Reddy. Akash Deep's injury has only made their task difficult. With what transpired at the nets, it can be anybody's guess who can replace Akash Deep if he fails to recover fully in the next two days but with this team management and how they have gone about their business in the past, it will be imprudent to come to a conclusion. Thakur, who featured in the first Test at Leeds, bowled equally long spells and batted in tandem with Kamboj, which again can be a big hint of him returning to the playing XI. But given the long stint, Tamil Nadu left-hand batter B Sai Sudharsan, who too was dropped after the Leeds match, had, his chances of regaining his spot could not be ruled out. What makes it more intriguing is the fact that Karun Nair, who has yet not converted his starts into big scores putting a question mark on his presence in the playing XI, batted quite long with the likes of KL Rahul, Yashasvi Jaiswal and Gill.

As Ravindra Jadeja and Washington Sundar looked certain for selection as the spin-bowling all-rounders, the mystery over Reddy's replacement only deepens. Karnataka's Prasidh Krishna, who played the first two matches, is also in contention and was impressive with his line and lengths but like Thakur and Kamboj, he didn't bat.

PANT IN HAPPY SPACE

Despite all concerns over his fitness, wicketkeeper-batter Rishabh Pant was nonchalant as he faced both pacers and spinners with ease in the nets. Even before he wielded the willow, the dashing batter looked comfortable while doing wicketkeeping drills. He didn't look in pain and not once took his bottom hand off the bat, which he did regularly during the Lord's Test where he got hit in his left index finger. Pant recovering well ahead of the match seems to be the only good news the team has got in the last few days. They can only hope a few are on their way before the contest starts.

Bumrah will take part in fourth Test, says Siraj

FIROZ MIRZA @ Manchester

INDIA pacer Mohammed Siraj on Monday confirmed that Jasprit Bumrah will play the Manchester Test starting Wednesday. On being asked about the speedster's availability for the match, Siraj said, "Jassi Bhai will play now."

Speaking further on the subject, he said, "But as the combination is changing day by day, we have only one plan that we should win. We try to bowl in good areas and that has made England play with a lot of patience in the last match. So we felt good."

> When I get that responsibility of being the leader of the pack, it feels good. I take pride in doing that for the country
>
> — Mohammed Siraj, India pacer

Like other teams, India too have been resting their pacers as a part of workload management. However, Siraj has been playing Test matches continuously for the past few years. Incidentally, he has bowled the most overs among the Indian bowlers in the ongoing series. He credited almighty for his fitness and said his mindset is to win matches for the country. "My only mindset is that if I am getting the opportunity, I should use it well and win matches for my country and perform well. So this is the only mindset that I should play as many matches as possible for the country."

He said the biggest motivation for him is representing the country and helping it win the matches. "There is no secret of my energy on the field. When you play for the country, the biggest motivation is that you are representing the country. So the biggest source of energy is that when I play for the country, then I want to give my 100 per cent so that when I go to sleep, I shouldn't feel that I missed this, and I should have done this. I shouldn't have any regrets. Whatever result comes, I have only one plan that I should give my 100 per cent."

He, however, did not give any insight on the combination the team management is looking at for the contest. He also applauded England captain Ben Stokes and appreciated the way he bowled a couple of long spells in the Lord's Test, which India lost by 22 runs.

Siraj was the last wicket to fall in the third match. Despite all his efforts to see the team home along with Ravindra Jadeja, an unfortunate dismissal meant India lost the contest. Siraj said it was heartbreaking for him. "Obviously, in such a match, getting out in such a manner was heartbreaking. Given my partnership with Jaddu bhai, I felt that I would not be able to get out, because as much as I was playing, I was getting a lot of confidence. But unfortunately, I got out. Had we won the match there, it would have been 2-1 in favour of India here."

He admitted it took him a lot of time to get over that dismissal which eventually resulted in India's loss. "I am an emotional person and losing a match from that point was very difficult to accept. Jaddu bhai had worked so hard in that match and even Bumrah played 54 balls. So it was difficult to move on," he said.

Italy stand between favourites Eng and final

HAVING come back from the brink of elimination against Sweden in the last eight, England will hope to live up to their billing as favourites when they face Italy in the semifinals of Women's Euro 2025 on Tuesday.

The holders are tantalisingly close to another major tournament final, with a showdown next Sunday against either Germany or world champions Spain the reward for Sarina Wiegman's team should they get the better of the Azzurre in Geneva. The Lionesses could be forgiven for feeling that their name is on the trophy after the dramatic nature of their victory over Sweden in Zurich on Thursday. "I really had a sense throughout the game, even when we were down, that it wasn't our time to go," defender Esme Morgan told English media this weekend as she reflected on the unlikely comeback against Sweden.

2 Indians, 2 Chinese, one trophy

ONE of Divya Deshmukh or Koneru Humpy will feature in next year's women's Candidates, the eight-player double round-robin tournament whose topper will play in the 2026 edition of the women's world Championships. This was confirmed after Humpy's win in the quarterfinal against Yuxin Song on Sunday.

On Monday, Deshmukh joined her senior compatriot in the last four after her tie-break win over D Harika in the women's World Cup in Batumi. The teen, an age-group world champion, continued her fairy tale run in Georgia as she took down another GM. A few days after bringing down the second seed and one of the pre-tournament favourites, China's Zhu Jiner's, she repeated the trick against Harika as she won both the tie-break games. After the pair of games, she credited her coach 'for the prep'. "I would have to say the preparation had a lot of role in that game (first game of the break with white pieces)," she said. Neither player held a clear advantage out of the opening but the 19-year-old built up an advantage thanks to couple of sharp moves as she punished several of Harika's questionable moves. A blunder from her — 27. c6 — put the younger Indian in the driver's seat. And it's an advantage she didn't relinquish till Harika resigned. Both players traded major inaccuracies in the second of the two breakers. She faces Tan Zhongyi in one of the two semis, while Humpy faces the other Chinese, Lei Tingjie, for a place in the final. Semifinals: Koneru Humpy vs Lei Tingjie, Divya Deshmukh vs Tan Zhongyi. THE team representing India at the World University Games has stirred a controversy. A player in the team has alleged that there were issues in team selection and the officials were to be blamed for the fiasco. It is understood that India team had sent 12 entries for the badminton team event in Rhine-Ruhr, Germany but only six could play because the officials who attended the managers' meeting.

They only submitted six names -- two men and four women -- Saneeth Dayanand, Sathish Kumar Karunakaran, Devika Sihag, Tasnim Mir, Varshini Viswanath Sri, and Vaishnavi Khadkekar who competed at the mixed event. The team had taken a big risk because if one person were injured then the whole team would have suffered.

It is reported that BV Rao and Ajit Mohan were the Association of Indian Universities (AIU) officials who attended the meeting. "This is not just mismanagement it's career sabotage. We demand answers, accountability, and that our voices be heard. We didn't lose a match, we lost our right to even participate," Alisha Khan, one of the players who suffered said on Instagram. There were charges of players not attending trials participating at the Games. The AIU reportedly has acknowledged the lapse and has said an investigation has been initiated.

INDIA WOMEN IN ENGLAND

Will spin to win continue to be the theme for series decider?

GOMESH S @ Chennai

AS England opener and keeper Amy Jones held her nerve to take the hosts home in the second ODI, one of the stand out aspects of her unbeaten 57-ball 46 was the way she negated the Indian spinners. In many ways, the trio of Deepti Sharma, Sneh Rana and N Shree Charani have been the X-factor of sorts for India throughout this tour.

It started with a 3-2 T20I series win and has now arrived at Chester-le-Street for one last dance with India and England going up against each other to win the three-match ODI series. England head coach Charlotte Edwards has enjoyed the hard-fought contests. "It's been a brilliant series, I think from the Trent Bridge game, which feels like a long time ago, to now, I think it's been really competitive. Obviously disappointed we lost the T20I series. But I think, once the ODIs come around, this is a really important prep in terms of the World Cup. It's all to play for now in Durham, which we're all looking forward to. I think you want to be part of these sort of must-win games to win the series," Edwards told this daily in a conversation facilitated by Sony Sports Network on Monday.

England coach Charlotte Edwards | ECB

For England, the biggest challenge thus far has been tackling the Indian spinners. Contrary to the home side, Harmanpreet Kaur and Co have consistently fielded a spin-heavy side and reaped the results as well. It was evident during the T20Is and even more so in the first two ODIs. Out of the 71 overs India sent down across two games — the second ODI was a rain-curtailed one — 44 overs came from Rana, Sharma, Pratika Rawal and Charani. Each spinner has played a different role, bowling in different phases of the game.

Edwards, meanwhile, feels England have spent enough time watching and learning how to counter the Indian spinners over the last few weeks. "This is our eighth game. I think as you've seen our batting line-up, we have seen a much improved performance every game, in my opinion. So I think the Indian bowlers are very disciplined. They bowl to their fields. And I think we've talked a lot about that, their discipline. But equally, sometimes when it's disciplined, we've got to counter that. I think the batters have gone away and looked at different plans they can implement," Edwards said, before adding, "I think what's been really impressive for me is how our batting unit have gone away and looked to improve and counter the Indian attack. So, yeah, it's set up really nicely for tomorrow (Tuesday)."

Come Tuesday, in a contest where everything matters, it might come down to which spin attack have a better day to determine the winners.

TO BEAT CANCER

THREE DRUGS AND A MISSION

Triplet therapy, which involves a combination of three drugs, is emerging as an option to manage cancers that are resistant to conventional methods

RISHITA KHANNA @ Bengaluru

WHEN standard cancer treatments begin to fail, especially in aggressive or advanced stages, oncologists are increasingly turning to a newer strategy known as 'triplet therapy'. Far from being just a combination of three drugs, this approach is designed to hit cancer from multiple angles at once — disrupting its growth, cutting off its support systems, and awakening the body's own immune response. Triplet therapy, doctors say, is now emerging as a powerful option for cancers that were once considered extremely difficult to manage, such as metastatic prostate cancer and advanced head and neck cancers.

Triplet therapy works on the principle that cancer is not a static disease. It evolves, adapts, and finds new ways to bypass single-line or even double-line treatments. By using three agents, often from different therapeutic classes like chemotherapy, targeted therapy, and immunotherapy — doctors can slow down or stall this progression. Each component is chosen not just for its individual effect, but for how well it complements the others. This approach is proving particularly useful in cancers that have grown resistant to conventional methods.

Low-dose strategy

One of the most promising applications of triplet therapy is in advanced or recurrent head and neck cancers. These cases are often difficult to treat, especially when the patient is not strong enough to undergo high-dose chemotherapy or radiation. In such scenarios, oncologists are using a low-intensity yet smartly engineered regimen. It includes oral metronomic chemotherapy — typically methotrexate and celecoxib — given continuously at low doses to minimise toxicity. Instead of the traditional "shock and kill" method of chemotherapy, this low-dose strategy steadily weakens the tumour by cutting off its blood supply (a process called anti-angiogenesis) and reducing its ability to recover.

Alongside this, a targeted therapy like erlotinib is added to inhibit the epidermal growth factor receptor (EGFR), a common driver of cell growth in head and neck tumours. By blocking EGFR, cancer cell division slows dramatically. Completing the trio is low-dose nivolumab, an immune checkpoint inhibitor that helps the body's own T-cells recognise and attack the tumour, even when the immune system has become exhausted or desensitised. According to Dr Sreenivas BJ, consultant medical oncologist at HCG Cancer Centre, this approach is not just about survival — it improves symptoms, preserves quality of life, and most importantly, is affordable and feasible even in low-resource settings. Patients who would have previously received only palliative care now have a shot at active disease control.

Meanwhile, another form of triplet therapy is showing promise in metastatic prostate cancer, particularly in patients whose disease continues to spread despite being on hormone therapy. This stage — known as metastatic castration-resistant prostate cancer — is notoriously difficult to manage. Doctors are now using a strategy that combines androgen deprivation therapy (ADT), targeted drugs, and chemotherapy to push back the disease. ADT reduces levels of testosterone and other male hormones that prostate cancer cells rely on. However, many tumours eventually find ways to grow despite this hormonal suppression.

This is where targeted therapy comes in. Depending on the genetic mutations present in the tumour, drugs such as PARP inhibitors (like olaparib) may be added to exploit the cancer cells' weakened DNA repair mechanisms. Chemotherapy, typically using docetaxel, then directly attacks fast-dividing cells and works synergistically with hormone therapy.

Dr Sai Vivek V, consultant in medical and haemato-oncology at Aster Whitefield Hospital, notes that this combination is not only delaying disease progression but also improving overall survival. In several cases, patients on this triplet regimen have lived longer and with better quality of life than those on standard therapy alone.

STRIKE AT MULTIPLE FRONTS

- Triplet therapy works on the principle that cancer is not a static disease
- Rather than waiting for one treatment to fail before adding another, oncologists say they are now designing therapies that strike on multiple fronts from the outset
- By using three agents, often from different therapeutic classes like chemotherapy, targeted therapy, and immunotherapy, doctors can slow down or stall this progression
- This approach is proving particularly useful in cancers that have grown resistant to conventional methods
- One of the most promising applications of triplet therapy is in advanced or recurrent head and neck cancers

Risks and side effects

However, doctors believe that combining three potent agents naturally brings added complexity. Side effects differ based on the drugs used and the patient's overall condition. In the head and neck cancer regimen, side effects tend to be milder like fatigue, mild nausea, or skin rash due to the use of low-dose medications. In prostate cancer, where drugs are stronger, the risks include reduced blood counts (raising infection risk), gastrointestinal issues, and fatigue. Targeted therapies, while precise, can also affect healthy cells with similar biological markers, sometimes leading to high blood pressure or changes in liver enzyme levels.Doctors manage these risks through careful monitoring and dose adjustments. Supportive care is essential, including medications to boost blood counts, control nausea, or manage blood pressure. The goal is always to maintain the effectiveness of the treatment while keeping patients as functional as possible, doctors explain.

Layered approach

What sets triplet therapy apart is its proactive, layered approach. Rather than waiting for one treatment to fail before adding another, oncologists say they are now designing therapies that strike on multiple fronts from the outset. This reflects a more modern understanding of how cancer behaves in the body. In India, where cost and access to care remain critical concerns, the head and neck cancer model using low-dose oral drugs offers a practical solution. However, experts say that triplet therapies are not without challenges but they represent a major evolution in how we think about cancer treatment — less about 'more drugs', and more about smarter combinations.

FROM CLINIC TO COUCH

ASIA'S FIRST AT-HOME IVF LAUNCHED

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

INDIA'S IVF sector is experiencing rapid transformation, driven mainly by growing demand and significant technological advancements. Once seen as a fertility treatment confined to large hospitals and metro cities, a new generation of fertility platforms is now bringing IVF (in vitro fertilisation) to the doorstep, making it more accessible, private, and less intimidating. Seeds of Innocens, a renowned fertility care brand with an international presence, has launched Asia's first fully integrated home IVF platform. The home IVF takes the entire fertility process – from consultations to hormone injections – out of the clinic and into the individual's home.

For working women, hard-pressed for time, but keen to undergo the lengthy process to hold a baby of their own in their hands, the home IVF services come as a boon. Not only is it less stressful, but one can manage the entire four to six-week process at their convenience from the comfort of their homes. Furthermore, treatment is what it would cost at a fertility clinic.

"It's not just more convenient; it's a complete shift in how IVF is delivered. Combining tech-enabled monitoring with home visits from trained professionals ensures medical supervision without the stress of frequent hospital trips. In short, it blends clinical expertise with the comfort and privacy of home," said Dr Gauri Agarwal, founder of Seeds of Innocens, which has branches internationally, including in Muscat, Oman, and Lusaka, Zambia.

"For women managing busy work lives, home IVF brings much-needed flexibility. It allows teleconsultations after office hours and even delivers hormone injections at home. This means fewer clinic visits and less time off work, making it easier to continue fertility treatment without disrupting daily routines or affecting results," she said. This is not only for women but for men, too, as it means more comfort and privacy.

DAY'S DIARY

The Worst Movie!

On this day, in 1959, Ed Wood's cult classic Plan 9 from Outer Space, often called as one of the worst films ever, premiered

REASON FOR REPUTATION

The film's reputation is due to many continuity lapses, such as nighttime scenes shot during the day, poorly built props, and the film claiming a paper plate as an alien spaceship

A LATE-NIGHT RESORT

The film played for years in relative obscurity on late-night television until 1980, when critic Michael Medved dubbed it the worst film ever made

THE MAKER'S PRIDE

The film was also named 'Worst Film of All Time' in the book, 'The Golden Turkey Awards'. But Ed Wood continued to claim that it was his pride and joy

NAMMA OORU'S COCKTAIL CULTURE IS MAKING GLOBAL HEADLINES WITH THREE CITY BARS MAKING IT TO ASIA'S 50 BEST BARS 2025 LIST, PLACING INDIA'S COCKTAIL SCENE FIRMLY ON THE WORLD MAP

ASLAM GAFOOR

(The writer is a Bengaluru-based hospitality professional, food lover, and travel enthusiast)

BAR-GALORE ON HIGH SPIRITS!

INDIA'S growing cocktail culture had a lot to celebrate last week, with the announcement of Asia's 50 Best Bars 2025 in Macau. While five Indian bars made it to the prestigious list, it was Bengaluru that led the charge, with three of its establishments, SOKA at No. 28, ZLB23 at No. 31, and Bar Spirit Forward at No. 37, winning international recognition.

For a city once known primarily for its pub culture, this marks a definitive turning point. Bengaluru's cocktail scene is not only maturing, it's helping redefine what an Indian bar can be: inventive, rooted, and ready for the world stage.

"It's an incredible moment," says Guru Shivaram, director at Investorant Platforms, which backed Bar Spirit Forward from the start. "When we first supported Arijit's vision, it felt bold and ambitious. But this recognition confirms that Bengaluru's cocktail culture is ready to stand shoulder to shoulder with the best in the world."

At the heart of this shift are bars that bring together global technique with local inspiration. ZLB23, for instance, is an elegant speakeasy hidden behind the kitchen corridors of The Leela Palace Bengaluru. With its Kyoto-inspired interiors, live jazz, and theatrical drinks, it evokes the Prohibition era while remaining firmly Indian in soul. "This recognition speaks volumes about the evolution of India's bar landscape," says Madhav Sehgal, Area Vice President – Operations South at The Leela. "We're weaving cultural narratives, embracing native ingredients, and sharing India's story with the world, one cocktail at a time." Their recently launched 'Native Section' menu draws from the region's own pantry: Coco Fizz with tender coconut, Annanas with Rani pineapple, and Fire and Water, a smoky concoction featuring bhajji chilli, are among the standouts.

Across town in Indiranagar, SOKA takes a more artistic, experimental approach. With its 10-metre bar kitchen and a decor curated by artist Siddharth Kerkar, the intimate 38-seater blends bar culture with culinary innovation and storytelling. Its founders, Chef Sombir Choudhary and Avinash Kapoli, are overjoyed. "Bengaluru has always had soul," says Choudhary. "But this puts our bar scene squarely on the global map. Our bartenders, farmers, and regulars, they're all part of this moment." Kapoli adds, "The recognition is fuel. It pushes us to keep digging deeper, into local produce, forgotten flavours and the stories that make Bengaluru what it is." Their signature drink, Cheese Cherry Pineapple, reimagines a nostalgic bar snack into a complex cocktail, playful, surprising, and quintessentially Bengaluru.

At Bar Spirit Forward, located inside the Southern Star Hotel, the approach is minimalist yet meticulous. Led by renowned bartender Arijit Bose, the bar is known for its laid-back vibe and a concise menu, which balances classic technique with modern flair. "We're a neighbourhood bar," Bose explains. "At the end of the day, drinks are social lubricants. We want people to have fun, not feel like they're at a science fair." Still, the craft is unmistakable. The bar's best-seller, Southern Star, is a tequila gimlet elevated with lacto-fermented guava, plum and jalapeno. "Recognition is great," says Bose, "but we're always looking to evolve, to do better than we did yesterday."

This spirit of innovation extends beyond Bengaluru's borders. SOKA has launched collaborative events like Not A Takeover and Sunday Rituals, while Spirit Forward is hosting global guest shifts – its bar manager recently did a stint in Taipei. "What sets us apart is our ability to blend tradition with innovation," says Sehgal, adding, "We're not chasing trends, we're setting them." The larger impact, many believe, will be in how this success inspires India's next generation of bartenders and beverage professionals. "This is just the beginning," Shivaram concludes. "The energy is infectious. These bars aren't just winning awards, they're building a culture."

And as Bengaluru raises a collective toast to its mixology pioneers, one thing is certain: the city's best drinks, and its best stories, are still to come.

BENGALURU-BASED ZEBU ANIMATION RECENTLY LEFT NETIZENS BUZZING WITH ITS LEGO TRIBUTE TO RAPPER HANUMANKIND'S 2024 SMASH-HIT BIG DAWGS

Big STEPPER

ANJALI RAM

NOT too long ago, city-based rapper-singer Hanumankind created waves in the global hip-hop scene with Big Dawgs. Released in 2024, the sleeper hit went on to become a chart breaker, garnering praises from music enthusiasts and celebrities across the world.

Recently, Big Dawgs peaked again after city-based Zebu Animation unveiled its LEGO tribute to the song. Its founder and creative director Veerendra Patil says the idea was born out of passion and admiration for the track and the visuals of the music video.

"We were blown away by the song and video – the energy, the style, everything just clicked. We were wrapping up our LEGO feature film at the time. That's when we had the idea: 'What if this existed in LEGO?' From there, it was about capturing the spirit of the original and adding a layer of playful tribute," he says.

Bringing the LEGO characters to life, with a focus on capturing the spirit of the original song, was, in fact, a labour-intensive yet creative process for the team. "The key was to nail the animation – the timing, look and making the LEGO Hanumankind easily recognisable," Patil explains. The team poured their hearts into the project and ensured that the final product met their standards, he adds.

The tribute features iconic elements from the original, including the well of death and stunt drivers. "We wanted it to feel like an alternate universe where Big Dawgs dropped as a LEGO music video," Patil says.

He credits teamwork for the final product, meeting their creative vision. "We've got artists, creatives, and technologists who are sharp, flexible, and visual. We all had different tastes in music, but the original track brought everyone together. We locked in on the music video's vision – and reimagined it, brick by brick, in LEGO," he explains.

The team's lighting supervisor, Rakshith Hoskote, adapted the pipeline developed for their LEGO feature film, which helped streamline the process," shares Patil.

As a tribute, the team focused more on reframing and not enhancing the original track. He notes, "It's a homage, not a remix."

When asked about the support extended to the team, Patil shared, "We are grateful for the encouragement from Hanumankind and his team. They even shared a family-friendly version of the track for us to use, since LEGO naturally leans toward all ages. We also got good response from Bijoy Shetty and Kalmi (director and producer, respectively, of the original music video)."

SHATTERING PERCEPTIONS, BUILDING EMPIRES
THE AUDACIOUS VISION OF RAMANDEEP SINGH SETHI

In a domain where vision often dictates success, Ramandeep Singh Sethi stands as a rare paradox—a blind visionary whose clarity of thought eclipses the sharpest of eyes. Born on 19 July 2000, he has carved an illustrious path through the tech landscape, becoming the first blind entrepreneur of consequence in the industry and the mind behind Hydizo Global Solutions, 1Only Host, and Leadtuts. "Barriers exist to be dismantled—not feared. Innovation is not a luxury of the able-bodied; it is a right of the determined," he says. As the CEO and Founder of three thriving companies, and a magnetic public speaker, Sethi's trajectory is not merely inspirational—it is radically redefining.

Choosing the Road Less Paved

His early years were shaped by adversity. Despite passing the coveted IIT entrance exams, Ramandeep declined the route of reservation through a disability quota. "I didn't want an entry—I wanted impact," he asserts. That conviction led him to pursue Business Administration, laying the groundwork for a multifaceted empire that now empowers over 500 entrepreneurs globally.

This act was not one of defiance but one of principled independence, an ethos that now underpins every venture he helms. His decision resonates with those who believe that destiny can be rewritten—not inherited.

Crafting a Constellation of Innovation

Hydizo Global Solutions, his flagship venture, is at the frontier of web development, digital marketing, app development, IT solutions, digital consulting and cybersecurity. In a world where cyber threats evolve by the second, Sethi's approach is both prescient and surgically precise. His other enterprises—1Only Host and Leadtuts—have disrupted traditional web hosting and e-learning spaces, respectively, offering intuitive platforms backed by robust architecture.

Mastering the Invisible Machinery of Business

Sethi is no mere figurehead. With expertise in Java development, risk assessment, and server management, he remains intimately connected to the architecture of his enterprises. His rare ability to balance the cerebral with the strategic—whether in DevOps pipelines or high-level consulting—has earned him a unique place in India's startup ecosystem.

Colleagues often describe his problem-solving as elegantly unorthodox, marked by a confluence of logic, empathy, and relentless curiosity.

As a public speaker and philanthropist, Sethi has turned personal obstacles into public platforms. He doesn't merely speak to inspire; he speaks to mobilise. His recent engagements have focused on digital equity, the rights of disabled entrepreneurs, and the ethical evolution of AI—a field he believes must be "instructed by inclusion, not just innovation."

Beyond the Boardroom: A Call to Collaborate

Today, Sethi actively seeks partnerships that align with his value-driven model. From digital transformation projects to cybersecurity frameworks, he invites institutions, start-ups, and governments alike to co-create with purpose.

"Whether it's a solopreneur or a Fortune 500 firm, the principle is the same—technology must serve humanity, not the other way around," he says.

Ramandeep Singh Sethi's life is not a story of overcoming blindness. It is a story of seeing farther than most dare to look. In a world obsessed with optics, he offers something rarer: depth. Depth of thought, depth of strategy, and a depth of purpose that is quietly, yet unmistakably, reshaping the face of inclusive entrepreneurship.

SUKHASANA BADDHANGULIYASANA
(EASY POSE UPWARD FACING INTERLOCKED FINGERS)

This is a seated stretch performed in Sukhasana (Easy Pose), extending the arms up to the sky while keeping the fingers interlocked. It lays a good foundation to open the chest, rib cage, armpits, and sides of the torso, emphasising deeper breathing. A safe heart and shoulder opener practice. It is a therapeutic yoga sequence for asthma-related issues.

STEPS

- Start in Sukhasana. Ensure that your back and neck are straight. If needed, you can place a small pillow below your hips. Take a few deep breaths here.
- Movements in this pose are simple but must be performed with breaths. Ensure your breathing is slow and steady before you begin. Exhale completely, contracting your abdomen.
- Inhale, raise the arms above the head, interlocking the fingers and stretching the arms. Ensure your arms are straight, almost touching your ears, and the interlocked palms are facing up.
- Avoid raising your shoulders. Focus on your facial muscles and ensure your face is relaxed. Hold your breath while your arms are lifted.
- As you exhale, bring your arms down before your chest.
- Repeat this sequence up to five times.
- Once done, return to Sukhasana, close your eyes, and observe the changes in your body, especially your breath.

BENEFITS

- Stretching both arms with interlocked fingers helps make the spine more erect and tall.
- Brings a good stretch in the palms, wrists, fingers, neck, and shoulders.
- Helps relieve tension build-up due to long hours typing, playing guitar or tabla, gardening, or playing sports.
- Good practice for writers, musicians, gardeners, and sportspeople.
- Can be done anytime at the desk or field to rest and restore the muscles and joints.
- Improves the shoulder and spinal musculature and its flexibility.
- Expands the sides of the chest, intercostal muscles, and rib cage along with the armpits, shoulders, and upper back.
- Helps prepare the lungs for the forward bending asanas.
- Brings greater lung elasticity and range of motion to the spine.
- Improves circulation, and releases compression between the vertebrae.
- Easy to correct hunched or slouched posture and dropped shoulders.
- If performed after meditation or an intense pranayama session, it helps boost energy.

LIMITATIONS

- Students with any kind of injury or have had a surgery, especially the shoulders and wrists, sciatica, sacral ailments and slipped disc, HBP, chest pain, shortness of breath or hernia, should avoid this.
- Students who are unable to sit on the floor can be given the option of being seated on a chair or bed.
- People experiencing low blood pressure and pain in the fingers, wrists, or neck should take it slow under the guidance of a yoga expert.

Bring the spa home with soothing lights, warm tones, calming scents, and clever designs that turn your bathroom into bliss

WASH AWAY WORRIES IN STYLE

DARSHITA JAIN

THERE'S a certain magic in coming home to a space that instantly calms you, and people are finding that magic increasingly in their bathrooms. Turning your everyday washroom into a spa-inspired haven might seem like a luxury, but with thoughtful choices, even a modest Indian bathroom can feel like a soothing retreat. After all, isn't it wonderful to have a place where you can pause, breathe, and feel truly relaxed without stepping out of your home? A spa-like feeling, just right at home.

Praveen Kumar, principal designer at Render Minds, points out a reality many of us face: "When it comes to an average Indian washroom, the area ranges from 50 to 120 sq ft, which makes it difficult to give a complete spa look." He explains that most Indian bathrooms are functional with a water closet (WC), basin, and wash area. "But glass partitions and double sinks are now common, or all three can be done if space allows," he says. Since bulky spa equipment like tables won't fit, he says, "The theme of the spa is relaxation, and since Indian washrooms cannot accommodate spa tables, the key elements become materials, colours, lighting, storage – in cabinets or counters – and adding greenery to elevate the space."

Muskaan Agarwal, owner of Design Grove, says, a spa bathroom is more than just looks – it's about the mood. "Luxury bathrooms with amenities on par, feature bathing beauties that boast fabulous features such as steam showers, luxury fixtures, freestanding soaking tubs, and more," she says, adding that even smaller spaces can feel indulgent. "To create a spa-like feel in a small Indian bathroom, focus on maximising space, incorporating calming elements, and adding luxurious touches," she notes. Colour palettes are crucial. "Soft neutral tones like blue, green, pink, white, violet, grey, or yellow will help us relax," Agarwal explains. When it comes to materials that hold up well in Indian weather, she recommends, "Consider materials like natural stone, bamboo, and wood."

Sharing some design tips, Kumar says, "Generally, when it comes to materials, premium wood such as teak, bricks, or terracotta is used for designing. For the ceiling, concrete finishing is a good option." He encourages bringing in nature, too. "If space permits, installing greenery such as hanging plants is a good option, and if there is a provision for planter boxes, that can also be considered. Designer washbasins, pebble floors, and bringing in music facilities are also a good option."

Lighting is also key. "When it comes to lighting, natural lighting is the best," Kumar insists, adding, "Given Indian infrastructure, it is not easy to bring in natural light. Projects like villas or independent houses can be designed to allow for natural light, but when it comes to flats, apartments, or buildings, artificial lighting is often the best option. Open-to-sky panel lights, which evoke a sky-facing vibe, offer warm lighting, ambient lighting, and surface lighting and are also available on the market. The best would be to use natural lighting; else, the next option is warm lighting. In the end, the designs, materials, choice of ambience, and colours vary from designer to designer and the area of the washroom." Warm, ambient lighting or open-to-sky panel lights can mimic daylight and soothe the senses. Agarwal agrees and adds, "To create a relaxing atmosphere, opt for warm-toned, soft, and indirect lighting."

Fragrance and texture help complete the spa vibe. "Oil diffusers, sandalwood, and lavender can be added for fragrance, which would also give an aesthetic vibe. Plush towels, cotton bathrobes, mats, and small bamboo baskets on the counters can be used for the look and feel. A well-lit round or backlit mirror is also a good option," Kumar suggests.

Creating a spa-inspired bathroom isn't about grandeur; it's about turning even the smallest space into a sanctuary. It reminds us that sometimes, the most luxurious retreat is simply a calm moment to yourself, tucked away in the comfort of your home.

Kantara: Chapter 1 has been mounted on a grand vision and is set to release on October 2 in seven languages, celebrating folklore, faith, and cinematic scale

Rishab Shetty and team on the sets of Kantara : Chapter 1

A SHARADHAA

WHEN Rishab Shetty's Kantara was released in 2022, the film became a spiritual and cinematic phenomenon that echoed across the country. Now, the legend continues with Kantara: Chapter 1, and the journey behind its creation looks to be as grand as the myth it seeks to portray. The much-anticipated making video, released by Hombale Films, offers a riveting glimpse into the massive scale, immense effort, and intense emotions that went into shaping this prequel.

Helmed and headlined once again by Rishab Shetty, Kantara: Chapter 1 was shot over a staggering span of more than 250 days. The team, consisting of thousands of crew members, worked around the clock to bring this story to life.

The film will be released in Kannada, Hindi, Telugu, Tamil, Malayalam, Bengali, and English on October 2. Kantara: Chapter 1 is aimed at delving deep into the film's central folklore, faith, and philosophies that made the original a massive hit.

The making video, which has now gone viral on social media, gives a few glimpses into the visual grandeur of the film. From mythological storytelling to intense performances, from colossal set designs to hauntingly original music, the film is crafted by a team that includes music director B Ajaneesh Loknath, cinematographer Arvind Kashyap, and production designer Vineesh Banglan.

Produced by Hombale Films, the production house behind blockbusters like KGF, Raajakumara, Salaar, and the Kantara, this upcoming project is being positioned as one of their most ambitious ventures yet.

By expanding the Kantara universe, Hombale Films aims to build a cultural legacy that transcends linguistic boundaries, and with Rishab Shetty once again at the helm, the film has the potential to be yet another visceral, poetic, and powerful experience.

Telugu re-recording specialist S Chinna joins Chowkidar

CE FEATURES

DIRECTOR Chandrashekhar Bandiyappa, known for Rathavara, is back with Chowkidar. The teaser and songs have received a positive response. Chowkidar is being made as a multilingual film and will hit screens soon. The team is currently busy with the re-recording phase, and the latest news is that S Chinna has joined the project.

S Chinna is well-known for his work on films like the Prabhas-starrer Rebel, Nagarjuna's Don, Ravi Teja's Bengal Tiger, and Balakrishna's Simha. He also worked on Nikhil Kumaraswamy's debut film Jaguar. Now, after a long break, Chinna returns to Kannada with Chowkidar.

S Chinna

The film stars Pruthvi Ambaar, Dhanya Ramkumar, and Shwetha, who acted in Chaitrada Premanjali, along with Sai Kumar and Sudha Rani in key roles.

Chowkidar is produced by Kallahalli Chandrashekhar, with Vidyadevi as co-producer. Sachin Basrur has composed the music, and the lyrics have been written by V. Nagendra Prasad, Pramod Maravante, and Santosh Nayak. The cinematography is handled by Siddu Kanchanahalli.

Marvel's Kevin Feige confirms director of X-Men film

CE FEATURES

WITH Marvel's Ironheart, quietly ending the Phase Five of the Marvel Cinematic Universe (MCU), the studio and its head, Kevin Feige, are looking forward to their upcoming slate of releases, starting with The Fantastic Four: First Steps, which releases on July 25. Speaking to Comicbook as part of a press roundtable, the producer confirmed the director for the long-awaited X-Men film, to be the director of Thunderbolts*, Jake Schreier.

Speaking about Schreier, Feige said,"It's official, Jake Schreier is doing X-Men for us, and we're very, very lucky. And so we're beginning. It's all starting now. The script's underway." He added, " Jake's an incredibly smart guy, and he's an incredibly talented filmmaker. We had a great experience with him on Thunderbolts*. And if you saw that movie, what he did with those character interactions, he also has his pulse on, shall we say, a younger demographic. He's younger than me for sure, but he's tapped into that in a way that I think was important for Thunderbolts*, much more important for X-Men. Because X-Men, as it was in the comics, will be a very youth-oriented, focused and cast movie."

Schreier debuted with Robot and Frank (2012), and went on to direct Paper Towns (2015), which was an adaptation of the John Green novel of the same name. He also has several music videos under his belt, including 'We Cry Together' by Kendrick Lamar, 'Younger and Hotter Than Me' by Selena Gomez and Benny Blanco.

Director Mahesh Ravikumar, along with a cast of fresh faces, crew members, and producer Srinivas Murthy, share their experience of working on this crime-action drama, and explain why it is important for audiences to invest time in newcomers' cinema

'Bandook is a chamber of emotions'

CE FEATURES

FRESH talents continue to emerge, eager to tell stories that move away from the usual formula. Audiences expect new directors to bring bold ideas and modern storytelling, and Bandook, which is a raw, emotional crime-action drama, aims to provide just that.

Set on a desolate island, Bandook's trailer opens with bodies surfacing and buried secrets coming to light. A retrieval team counts the corpses while a lone investigator seeks truths that refuse to stay buried. In this story, justice blends with love, and revenge takes a familiar face.

Written and directed by Mahesh Ravikumar, the title poster has generated the right excitement ahead of its theatrical release on July 25. Srinivas Murthy and Chandrashekhar, along with co-producer Pydi Ramakrishna have bankrolled the film, which has been extensively shot around Honnavar, Udupi, Malpe, and Mangaluru, giving it a visually grounded, coastal look.

"Bandook is a chamber of emotions," Mahesh explains. His journey began with film school and short films. "It has five chambers — like a revolver. Each character is like a bullet, loaded with emotion, conflict, and surprise. It's not just a crime drama. There's a deep emotional core, a love story, and layers of investigation."

The story revolves around a mysterious murder that connects various characters, each hiding their own truths. "There's tension, drama, a genuine love story, and unexpected turns. We've worked to balance multiple genres within a tight narrative," Mahesh adds.

Joining Mahesh's vision is a cast that combines new faces and experienced actors. Manasa, Raghav, and Deepak make their debut alongside Balaji Manohar, Gopal Krishna Deshpande, Shwetha Prasad, and Harish Roy.

"This is my first film," says Manasa, who plays Lakshmi. "She's a college girl, innocent and pure-hearted. Her life changes drastically due to one unexpected incident. The role affected me deeply. Becoming an actor was a dream, and I was discovered at a gym. That's how it began."

Sharing his enthusiasm, Deepak says, "Chamaraj master introduced me to the director. He wanted someone fresh, who could bring action and emotion. My role has everything — romance, drama, dance, and fights. It's a full package."

Actor Balaji Manohar portrays a suspended police officer and was impressed by Mahesh's clarity from the start. "He sent me the script on WhatsApp, and I could see his vision immediately. When young directors attempt something new, they need support. Bandook shows maturity and seriousness, even with a new team," he states.

Regarding his character, Balaji adds, "There's a lot of empathy and depth. The character is more than just an archetype. If the film does what it aims to do, I'm sure the audience will notice."

Shwetha Prasad, another familiar face, also plays a cop. "I was filming Radha Ramana at the time and wasn't sure about joining a debut team. But Mahesh's showreel changed my mind. There was undeniable passion in his work," she shares. "My character is strong, and the way it's filmed makes me proud. New directors need just one opportunity, and Mahesh deserves it."

Veteran actor Gopal Krishna Deshpande took a chance based on the team's confidence. "I didn't know the full script initially. But their pitch and the showreel gave me confidence. I play the head of an ashram, someone trying to maintain peace while everything falls apart around him," he reveals.

For producer Srinivas Murthy, Bandook holds personal significance. "I'm from a small village. I always wanted to become a police officer for my mother. But life took different turns," he shares emotionally. "After a heart surgery, I worked in a department store, drove autos and cabs, and eventually started a poultry farm. I later met Mahesh at a gym. That meeting directed me toward the cinema." He goes on, "Investing in Bandook is not just about money. It's my life savings, my belief, and my story. I truly believe in Mahesh's vision. I ask the audience to give us a chance and their time. When new teams receive support, our industry thrives."

The technical team provides Bandook with a solid foundation. Music director Prasanna Kumar MS discusses the challenges of scoring for a film that shifts between genres. "There's crime, romance, and high emotion. While I usually choose folk tunes, this film necessitated a new musical style. After extensive discussions with Mahesh, we found our direction. I believe both the songs and the background score will resonate."

Cinematographer HY Rohith Kumaar, who is making his debut with this film has previously worked as a still photographer on films like Kirik Party and Avane Srimannarayana. "I met Mahesh in 2023. At first, I struggled to understand the narrative, but his visual approach inspired me," he says, adding, "We shot over 62 days, mostly outdoors, with several night schedules. It was demanding, but our goal was to keep it grounded and real."

Editor Vasanth Kumar and colourist Tom C. Jose have shaped the film's pace and texture, while sound designers Vinayak Meda, known for their work in Manjummel Boys and Jeeva Adarsh, have crafted the sound design.

Distributor AJ Ravichandran, who is known for supporting unconventional films, believes Bandook will surprise viewers. "Theaters are slowly filling again. People are eager for something fresh. Bandook has that spark. It's emotional, atmospheric, and sharp. It's for the multiplex audience looking for something different," he notes.

Although the title might suggest a typical action drama, Bandook delves much deeper. "It's not about a single hero or villain," Mahesh clarifies. "It's a network of people, each with motives, regrets, secrets, and desires. The story focuses on what connects them and what tears them apart."

The trailer hints at mystery, suspense, and raw drama. Mahesh understands the stakes. "The first three days mean everything for a debut film. If audiences come, we survive. If they like it, we thrive. That's all we ask, a chance," he concludes.
